AUSTEN LAKE IN ENGLAND

Boston's own best-known reporter has reached London to cover the blitz on Britain for the Boston Evening American. Lake is the first American newspaperman to make the hazardous voyage to Britain in a convoy.

First of his exclusive news beats from Britain will appear in this Sunday's Advertiser—5 pages of pictures of the arrival and distribution of clothing contributed by New England for the Record-American-Advertiser Christmas Ships for England.

Lake's articles on embattled Britain will appear soon exclusively in the Boston Evening American. Watch for them.

BRITAIN BREAKS WITH BULGARIA

Turn Affairs Over to U. S. Envoy

Dog's a Hero—Fritzie, a Schnauzer-Irish terrier, today looked upon his work . . . and found it good. By barking and growling, the dog saved the family of Alfred Losier from asphyxiation in their Malden home early Sunday morning. And, today, he poses proudly with Bafry, 3 months old, and David, 3, who are alive . . . thanks to him.

BRITAIN, BULGARIA BREAK

SOFIA, BULGARIA, March 4 (AP)—British Minister George W. Rendel informed United States Minister George H. Earle today Britain was breaking relations with Bulgaria tomorrow and Earle instructed the American legation to start preparing to take over custody of British property throughout the country.

A special train had been ordered for tomorrow, but Earle was informed its departure may be delayed a day or two depending on when Rendel can finish preparations for leaving.

Nazi troop movements into Bulgaria and toward her Turkish and Greek frontiers continued to swell in volume hourly.

BRITISH SHIFT 750,000 TO ARMS JOBS

LONDON, March 4 (AP)—Closure or consolidation of dozens of factories engaged in some of Britain's largest traditional peace time industries was announced today by the government to release as many as 750,000 men and women for arms manufacture.

More than 50 industrial enterprises employing a million workers will be affected.

This sort of economic consolidation for military purposes was carried out in Germany long before the war.—Editor's note.

The program was announced in the House of Commons by Oliver Lyttleton, president of the Board of Trade, a cabinet post.

Lyttleton explained that the government, through its absolute control of raw materials, would either force the factories to close down or consolidate.

Estimates of the number of industries to be affected ranged from 50 to 90. Their leaders are being called in by the government to draft details. They are expected to make consolidation arrangements among themselves with the government helping to absorb losses.

Lyttleton mentioned "hosiery, pottery, the major textile industries, boots, shoes and some others" as the first to be hit because they "provide the main source of factory-trained labor for munitions."

FIVE-DAY FORECAST

Extended weather forecast: The temperature will average four to eight degrees below normal during the next four days. Falling temperature to well below normal Tuesday night will be followed by a reaction by Thursday and quite generally by Friday, becoming colder again in all sections on Saturday.

Normals for the period are: Boston, Nantucket and New Haven, 33 degrees; Portland, 28; Concord, N. H., 37; Burlington, Vt., and Eastport, Me., 26. Precipitation will total moderate, one third to two thirds of an inch during the next four days.

Mostly fair weather Tuesday night and Wednesday except for light snow flurries in the mountains. Moderate snows are expected in most sections by Thursday night or Friday followed by clearing weather in all sections by Saturday.

CHURCHILL CHEERED—Proof that Winston Churchill holds a warm spot in the hearts of Britain's fighting forces is this picture showing helmet-waving Tommies cheering the prime minister during his visit to a proving ground to witness a demonstration of tanks and armored units. Also present at the demonstration were Gen. Charles De Gaulle, "Free French" leader, and Gen. Sikorski, commander of the Polish forces.

Five-Hour Fire Raid Rips Port of Cardiff

CARDIFF, Wales, March 4 (AP)—This important southwest port was raked five hours last night by a hail of incendiary bombs in what British officials described as one of the greatest fire raids of the war.

Great fires were raging at the height of the attack, but all were under control this morning. Smoking ruins marked a trail of destruction across the city.

During the night, the American Red Cross sent ambulance units from London, 160 miles away.

The number of casualties could not be determined immediately.

PIROTECHNIC DISPLAY
With widespread fires lighting the city, the German bombers followed with high explosives.

Cardiff's chief constable, James Wilson, said:

"It was a real pyrotechnic display. I doubt if any town has had more incendiary bombs showered upon it in any one raid."

In one hospital where surgeons were working over bomb casualties one of the operating theaters was struck, but no casualties resulted.

Motion picture theaters were showing to capacity crowds when the fire bombs began to fall. In some, the audiences remained seated, joining in community singing while nearby business blocks were burning.

Britons said the assault was in line with the new German strategy of using bombers to fight the British sea blockade by raiding ships, harbors and harbor facilities. The Luftwaffe was said to have been using about 150 bombers nightly in these forays.

ONE SHOT DOWN

It was officially stated that one of the German raiders over Cardiff was destroyed by anti-aircraft fire.

Anti-aircraft guns threw up a heavy barrage, and one raider was believed hit.

Nazi night raiders also attacked scattered areas elsewhere in Britain.

JAP ATTACK SEEN IF U. S. AIDS BRITAIN

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—Sen. Wiley, (R.) of Wisconsin, announcing his opposition today to the Administration's British aid bill, asserted "if we put our fleet into the Atlantic breach for Britain, Hitler may goad Japan" into attacking the United States.

Wiley's expression came on the 14th day of Senate debate, while Stephen T. Early, White House secretary, was telling reporters he thought "a good many efforts to confuse and mystify and inject poison into the defense setup are now going on."

These efforts, Early said, were "probably related to the opposition of the lease-lend bill."

Declaring Congress had "no right" to pass the bill "of directing foreign policy to the President," Wiley said he believed there was a "serious possibility" if the bill as presently drawn became law American defenses might be impaired and this country might be involved in war.

VOTE DUE NEXT WEEK

Sen. Nye (R.) of North Dakota, told reporters, after a meeting with other leaders of the opposition, that opponents of the measure were willing to begin consideration tomorrow of committee amendments, thus ending the first phase of formal debate.

The consensus of the opposition was reported to have been that a

British Reveal How Canadians, Austen Lake Slip Past Nazis

LONDON, March 4 (AP)—Lifting the secrecy which cloaks the convoy of troopships, the British Navy today permitted publication of the details of how several liners loaded with Canadian troops were brought safely to England through seas patrolled by German U-boats and planes.

With such headlines as "Another Big Canadian Army Arrives," newspapers enlarged upon Saturday night's announcement of the coming of more troops from Canada.

Austen Lake, Boston American reporter cabled Saturday of his safe arrival in England aboard such a convoy, perhaps the very one described in this dispatch. Lake informed the American public two weeks ago he would be leaving for Britain shortly but added: "I can't tell you when, and I can't tell you how, but I can only say I'm on my way"

While in Britain Lake will write special articles for the American. The first will be printed shortly.—Editor's note.

Several gray, blacked-out liners, each carrying 1500 to 2000 men, steamed for a secret, prearranged rendezvous, no more than a dot on a chart of the North Atlantic.

Then one of the strongest naval escorts yet provided for a convoy slipped from its British base at night to meet the liners ploughing eastward through a winter sea. Almost to the scheduled minute, the account said, the warships picked up the leaders of the convoy at the gale-swept station.

Repeatedly crews had to chop the decks free of snow and ice in order to keep their guns ready for action.

Occasionally, destroyers of the escort dashed off to investigate distant ships.

The escort, composed of units of the royal Canadian navy, United States destroyers traded to Britain, units of allied navies and ships of the royal navy, did not leave the troopships until they were safe in port.

Strangle-Murderer Lists Attacks on 16

NEW YORK, March 4 (INS)—Husky, scar-faced George Joseph Cvek, 23-year-old Harrisburg, Pa., youth, today confessed the strangling of Mrs. Catherine Pappas in her Bronx apartment last Feb. 4 and attacks on 15 other women in New York, Washington, Philadelphia and Newark.

FLIER, BRIDE PARTED

MR. AND MRS. NICK JOSEPH

Call to Duty With RCAF Parts Newlyweds

WAR BRIDE LEFT ALONE AS DUTY CALLS HUBBY

How near Nick Joseph, young American-born Royal Canadian Air Force flier, came to having his war career ended for love was learned today after Joseph, a bridegroom of less than 24 hours, started back for Canada—alone.

Behind him he left his bride, the pliant Mona Maxine Duret, 25, shapely dancer in the Hotel Westminster floor show, who met the soldier of fortune amid the booming of guns in war-torn France.

When the flier arrived at City Hall late yesterday, looking for the marriage bureau, he encountered a federal officer in the corridors and this officer gave him the proper directions.

But when the federal officer said to Nick Joseph, in effect:

"But here, my good man, you are in a flier's uniform of Canada, a member of armed forces in a neutral country. You are in danger of being interned. Any representative of a German or Italian consulate could demand your arrest right here on the spot."

LOVE FINDS A WAY

Well, this was a fine blow to love, but the federal officer, who must remain anonymous, had a solution. With others co-operating, the aviator was hustled up to the Hotel Avery and some civilian clothes secured for him. It was in these he now appeared formally at the marriage bureau.

A short time later, while Joseph still wore the muff, he and Mona, having obtained a five-day law waiver and the license, were married at the hotel.

John Riley, a Daily Record reporter, was best man and was rewarded with a resounding kiss by the bride.

FIRST MET IN FRANCE

Joseph and his bride first met in France in June, 1940, when he was a driver with an American ambulance corps to which she was assigned as secretary. Later, he went to Canada to join the Royal Air Force. Yesterday was their first meeting since the parting in France.

In Europe, the bride was a ballet dancer and had appeared with much success in the various capitals. She left Germany for Paris just three days before the Germans began their march through France.

When Joseph went to Canada she came to Boston to continue her career, as a dancer. They had corresponded ever since.

Nine of the women victims identified the hitch-hiking strangler. The husband of one woman had to be restrained forcibly from slugging Cvek.

Cvek was picked up in a low-tariff hotel in midtown New York last night several hours after Mrs. Elizabeth Jensen, 34, was found slain in her uptown apartment less than a mile from the scene of the Pappas crime.

MURDERS ALIKE

Death, swift and sure and merciless, came in identical fashion to both women—a necktie roped cruelly tight about the victim's throat. However, Dist. Atty. Samuel J. Foley declined any attempt at the moment to link Cvek with the Jensen slaying.

"We don't want to interlock this case with any other," Foley said. "We haven't started to question him concerning the Jensen case yet. We have lots of time."

Cvek's arrest was brought about by three detectives who noted his description tallied with that assigned to Mrs. Pappas' killer. A fingerprint in the Pappas apartment later was identified as that of Cvek, who had been on a hitch-hiking tour of the East in recent weeks.

The vengeful husband who sought to vent his wrath on the hulking killer in the Highbridge police station was Edward Wagner of Philadelphia.

COST BABY'S LIFE

Cause of his outburst was the wanton attack upon his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Wagner, bereft of a child by the attacker.

Wagner told police he recently picked up Cvek in Elizabeth, N. J., and gave him a lift in his automobile. During the ride Wagner mentioned his Philadelphia address to the man he befriended.

Later, Wagner said, Cvek made his way to Philadelphia, entered the Wagner home and attacked Mrs. Wagner, who was an expectant mother. Two weeks later her baby was born—dead.

In addition to the Wagner attack, police said, Cvek confessed attacks on Mrs. Ruth H. Franco, in Washington; Mrs. Virginia Barone, in Newark; and Mrs. Mary Snyder, Passaic, N. J. Police did not recall the rest of the names immediately.

It was the first time within memory of veteran detectives a killer of Cvek's type had come before them—ring, crafty, willing to take a life to gain a few dollars or a trinket. In the Pappas apartment.

Following the same romantic road that took her glamorous sister, Cherry, out of circulation by the matrimonial route, June Preisser today was looking at Hollywood through rose-colored glasses . . . with Gar Wood, Jr., son of the motorboat racer. The couple announced their engagement upon young Wood's arrival in the screen capital . . . and June says they'll be married sometime this summer. Meanwhile, it isn't raining rain at all, it's raining violets . . . in Hollywood . . . for two.

Dog Saves Family Of 5 From Fumes

Fritz, a pet terrier, saved his family from death by asphyxiation, it was revealed today by Alfred Losier of Dutton st., Malden.

In temporary quarters while their own home in Huntley st. is being checked for possible seepage of fumes, Losier and his wife, and Claire, 7, David, 3, and Barry, 3½ months, are recovering from a near tragedy averted by their dog.

By his barks and growls, the dog roused Claire early Sunday morning. The child went to the living room, where she found the dog with his nose against a crack in the door. He refused to obey her command to stop growling. Soon the child became nauseated and called her mother.

Mrs. Losier tried to aid the child but was overcome, and after Losier raised the windows to clear the air he discovered David and the baby both ill. All have been under treatment since.

Investigation of the fumes which first roused the dog, Losier said, has disclosed a seepage outside the Huntley st. house. Presumably the fumes filtered through the soil and cellar wall and thus entered the house.

The family doctor told him, Losier said, that had Claire not heard the dog, the family would have been dead within an hour.

"It was like creeping death," Losier said, describing the way the fumes poisoned his family.

PAPERS CUT SPACE

LONDON, March 4 (AP)—British newspapers announced today they had agreed to publish only four-page papers two days a week, so as to conserve newsprint. On the other days, they will remain at six pages.

34 Degree Drop Due Tonight

Boston's temperature is due to drop 34 degrees tonight according to the weatherman.

With the official high temperature in Boston recorded at 49 degrees this morning, the weather bureau forecast temperatures tonight ranging from 10 below in northern Maine, to 10 to 15 degrees above in southern New England and to 15 degrees in Boston.

The bureau's bulletin blamed the change on a storm that centered over Iowa yesterday and moved here today.

A mass of "very warm air" flowed across the middle Atlantic and southern New England states ahead of the disturbance, accounting for the high temperature.

Saltonstall's Elbow Operation Successful

An operation on Governor Saltonstall's left elbow, injured several years ago in a squash game, was reported successful today by the Chief Executive's office. The governor expects to remain at Massachusetts General Hospital for a week or ten days.

ASCAP OFFICIALS HERE, SEE TRUCE IN AIR ROW

Prediction that ASCAP music would be back on the radio within two weeks was made today by John Paine of New York, general manager of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers.

Paine and other executives of ASCAP met at the Copley-Plaza Hotel to discuss plans for opposing two measures which will be heard by the legislative committee on constitutional law tomorrow at the State House.

These bills, the ASCAP leaders said, would require composers and authors to register their works in this state and secure copyrights here. This, it is maintained, is unconstitutional. The proposals would also change the existing laws in regard to ASCAP licensing dance halls and restaurants, it was added.

TRUCE IS SEEN

Similar legislation was enacted in Montana three years ago, said Paine, but was repealed last month. While the general manager was explaining this, a telephone call was received from ASCAP headquarters in New York which resulted in Paine's prediction that a truce was close between his society and the radio networks.

"People who listen to their radios may expect to hear their old favorites—and many brand new songs by first flight authors and composers—back on the air about March 15, we believe," Paine asserted.

"Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard of the southern district in New York this afternoon handed down a consent decree on a case which began in 1935 and this will pave the way."

EFFECTIVE IN 90 DAYS

By the decree, effective in 90 days, ASCAP agrees to end alleged monopolistic practices. The decree stipulates it was not to be construed as an admission of any law violation by ASCAP. The organization, however, agreed to the following:

Its members will not have to license their compositions exclusively through ASCAP, which will not discriminate against any user in prices or terms. Pay-as-you-play licenses will be granted by ASCAP so that broadcasters will not have to take "all or none."

License will be granted to individual stations or chains, makers of electrical transcriptions will be licensed as advertisers with no restrictions. ASCAP's self-perpetuating board of directors is to be abolished, its method of compensating members will be equalized and one instead of five copyrighted songs will qualify for membership.

THEATER FEE TO GO

"It may be that our individual members will make individual transactions with radio stations, in order to prove there is no violation of the anti-trust laws by our society, but all funds will revert back to the society."

"However, the monetary arrangements will be something to be discussed later. The important thing is that our music will be back for the public, who want it."

Paine said that one of tomorrow's legislative proposals would do away with a fee of 10 cents a seat which ASCAP charges theaters using their music.

"Foreign guilds charge as much as 5 per cent of the box office receipts," he said. "That rate would mean about $30,000,000 for ASCAP, but we don't ask it."

Meeting with Paine were Louis J. Frohlich, general counsel for the society, Otto A. Harbach, composer of "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," Russell W. Rome, New England manager, and several other executives.

Diamond Men Draw High Pay

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP)—Diamond cutters today became the highest-paid craftsmen in the country under new union scales ranging from $120 for a 35-hour week to $195 weekly.

The increase from last year's $75-to-$135 scale, together with bonus agreements, represents a 60 per cent raise for 450 cutters.

The agreement, effective a year, was announced by Jack Baumgold, vice-president of a large diamond cutting firm employing 100 cutters.

Baumgold said there is a serious shortage of cutters. There were 40,000 of them in Europe, he added, but only 5 per cent have been able to get to America. The union plans to establish a special factory to train young Americans.

BREAKFAST . . . IN THE NEW HOME—Happy over the Suffolk court decision that gave their custody to a friend, Mary A. Kelley of Roxbury, are Dick and Edna Everett, who are pictured at breakfast in their new home today. With milk, they are toasting the future.

Strike Halts Work on Planes

DATON, O., March 4 (AP)—Col. Lester B. Miller, commandant at Wright Field, said that a new strike of AFL building trades union members today had halted 75,000,000 in building construction at this key center in the Army's air corps expansion program.

Col. Miller said that about 300 craftsmen left work on a wind tunnel, torque stand, radio laboratory, dynamometer laboratory and administration building in the second general strike at the field in six weeks.

The War Department said the strike halted work "essential to the expansion of this post as one of the most important aircraft centers in the United States."

Col. Miller reported the strike followed the resumption of electrical installation work by CIO union members employed by the Penner Corporation.

The first strike late in January ended when the Penner firm withdrew its men from the job.

PERPETUATE GRIST MILL

BREWSTER, March 4—Brewster's historic grist mill today became town-owned after voters had appropriated an annual sum of $200 for maintenance. Total appropriations voted for town expenditures this year were $62,457.

Search Still Goes on for Missing Baby

LEBANON, N. H., March 4—Police and volunteers today braved the ice-filled Connecticut river to resume dragging operations in their search for 3-year-old Robert Apt, Jr., missing since Friday.

Huge ice cakes, set free by the rise in temperature, endangered the searchers. On land, meanwhile, posers extended their search for a trace of the missing lad. Banks of the river and a wooded area south of the Apt home were combed by the searching parties.

State police likewise joined the search and checked on several rumors that the boy had been seen in an auto crossing the state toward Maine. None of the stories proved helpful, however, and police were still without a clue.

Both the child's father, an employee in a Windsor, Vt., rubber factory, and mother, have expressed fear that their son may have been kidnapped. They pointed out that several persons saw him return toward home from playing and coasting near the river Friday morning.

He left his sled at the rear of the Apt house but never went inside.

GRL SOBS CHARGES OF SURGERY

Her first session on the witness stand ending in a burst of tears, Miss Violet Lecnard, 22, of Linehurst rd., Ma'den, testified today in Brighton court that Dr. William E. R. Basch of Newton performed illegal surgery upon her.

The tall, attractive brunette, modestly clad, was the first witness when Dr. Basch, Mrs. Ina M. Plude, 53, of Blue Hills pkwy., Milton, and George J. Wagner, Jr., 20, of Seaview ave., Malden, had gone on trial in the case.

Dr. Basch, former Legion post commander, with offices in Harvard ave., Allston, is charged in warrants with conspiracy to perform illegal surgery, and with performing it.

Mrs. Plude, a nurse, is charged with complicity in the operation, while Wagner is charged with being an accessory before the fact and with conspiracy.

BURSTS INTO TEARS

Miss Leonard spoke so low the witness stand had to be moved nearer the judge and counsel. She finally burst into tears when a recess was called after an hour of testimony.

She ran to her mother and father, seated at the rear of the courtroom. The mother hugged her close.

Miss Leonard testified before Judge Thomas H. Connelly that she met young Wagner a year ago and that from last September to November they were intimate.

In November, she said with lowered head, she learned she was to have a baby, but when she asked Wagner to marry her, he said he was under age, and that, anyway, he did not earn money enough.

MET NURSE

Later, the witness said, he told her about a nurse, and Wednesday, Feb. 12, took her to the home of Mrs. Plude in Milton.

"I didn't want to go," said Miss Leonard, "but he asked me to go there. I didn't know what to do. I met Mrs. Plude. She was a smooth talker and said it would be easy. She told me that lots of girls came there and then they would walk out as if nothing had happened."

An appointment was made to meet Mrs. Plude the following Saturday, according to the witness, and she and Wagner met the nurse then at Commonwealth and Harvard aves., Allston.

Mrs. Plude completed some shopping she had to do, then drove the couple, Miss Leonard said, to the Milton house, where they all had supper. Then she drove them to Dr. Basch's offices in Allston, where the doctor took the two women into a side office, the girl testified.

CAUTIONED BY DOCTOR

The witness said Dr. Basch cautioned her to make no noise because there were "other people in the office and they might hear you."

The proceedings, she said, took about 15 minutes, and when she walked out the doctor remarked: "Nobody need know about it."

Then Mrs. Plude drove her, Miss Leonard testified, back to the Milton house, where she stayed until Sunday night.

"On Sunday," said the girl, "I began to get pains."

FOUND BY MOTHER

"I walked the floor from 11:30 in the morning till 11 at night. Mrs. Plude walked with me. At 11 o'clock I went to bed but at 11:30 I was awakened by noises downstairs and heard my mother's voice."

"Mrs. Plude came into the room and said, 'I thought you said no one knew you were here.' I had told my mother I was over there as a nursemaid."

Miss Leonard said her mother and father then came in with several men and she identified Police Chief John Shields of Milton, who was in court, as one of the men.

"I told the chief," she said, "that Wagner paid Mrs. Plude $175 on the night of Feb. 12. While I was telling the chief the story, Mrs. Plude told them I was lying and that I had come there as a nursemaid."

Mate 'Forgot' About Other Wife, She Says

SALEM, March 4.—Her husband's memory was so short that a year after their marriage in 1938 he "forgot" he had been married once before in 1924, and only last summer she was informed he had married again, Mrs. Janet S. Young, 25, of Haverhill, told Judge John A. Costello in probate court.

"I heard through friends he had been married before. When I asked him he denied it, then admitted it, saying it was so long ago he had forgotten it," Mrs. Young testified.

She appeared on her petition for annulment of her marriage to Earl E. Young, also of Haverhill.

MARRIED IN SALEM, N. H.

After a year's acquaintance, Mrs. Young testified, she and Young were married at Salem, N. H., May 5, 1938. In filling intentions, she added, Young said this was his first marriage.

After a bridal repast, they returned to Haverhill, stopped briefly at her home and then he returned to his home, she testified. He asked her to continue working for two or three months, and also to keep their marriage a secret.

"I agreed to it," Mrs. Young declared, "and I kept asking him to go to housekeeping, but he always evaded answering."

"KEPT MAKING EXCUSES" Mrs. Young said she finally told her family she had been married and then in 1939 she heard Young had been married before.

"All this time he was making excuses about not going housekeeping."

Last summer someone told her father Young had married again and she consulted a lawyer, Mrs. Young said.

Judge Costello took the petition under advisement.

Anemia Victim Rallies After Transfusion

Wayne E. Phillips, 33, of Edgecliff rd., Watertown, victim of a rare form of anemia, rallied today after his 69th blood transfusion, his second within a week. He is scheduled to undergo another Saturday.

Blood for the transfusion was given by Edward J. Morrell of Melbourn st., Newton, a member of the blood donating squad of Newton American Legion. It was the fifth transfusion Morrell has given Phillips during the last year.

New Torrents Peril Lives in California

LOS ANGELES, March 4 (AP)—California was swept anew today by heavy rains, creating hazardous conditions in many communities, snarling rail and highway transportation and disrupting communications and power service.

A low section of old Santa Barbara, where a half-inch of rain fell in 10 minutes, was flooded and Red Cross rescue crews removed 20 families in rowboats. Water covered the floors of some homes to a depth of 12 inches.

Slides and high water blocked the coast highway between here and San Francisco at many points, halting traffic in the vicinity of Santa Barbara. The Ridge route, chief inland highway, was closed by police as a blizzard howled through the mountains. Scores of trucks and many private cars were halted.

TREES BLOCK RAILROAD
Two hundred trees were blown across Southern Pacific Railroad lines near Santa Barbara, but crews with power saws had trains moving slowly several hours later.

In Southern California, where three years ago today residents were digging out after a storm which took 79 lives and caused $65,000,000 property damage, there was no immediate flood threat, the county flood control bureau reported.

DAMAGE IN HOLLYWOOD

Three-quarters of an inch fell here in four hours, and Hollywood was struck by a half-hour lightning storm and near-cloudburst which turned many streets into virtual rivers. The famous intersection of Hollywood and Vine was a swirling current as water poured down from the hills.

Ventura was isolated as landslides blocked every road. The sheriff's office evacuated families from Live Oak. Telegraph and power lines were snapped.

Northern California has had 10 weeks of almost constant rain. February in Southern California was the wettest in 57 years.

Mother of 3 Ends Own Life In Billerica

BILLERICA, March 4.—Silently stealing away from the side of her sleeping husband, Mrs. Marjorie A. Daniels, 25-year-old mother of three, went to the family garage this morning and committed suicide.

Her pajama-clad body was found inside the Daniels' automobile, garage doors closed, car motor running and heater turned on.

Her husband, Francis, employed at Charlestown Navy Yard, was unable to advance any motive. They visited friends last night he said and Mrs. Daniels seemed in excellent spirits.

Asst. Medical Examiner Michael A. Tighe pronounced death suicide, due to carbon monoxide.

400 More Youths Pass Army Draft Test Here

Maintaining its rapid pace, the Army today inducted close to 400 more youths into training at the First Corps Cadets army in Columbus ave., Back Bay.

Of 379 called from Belmont, Brookline, Chelsea and Cambridge, less than two score were rejected and those reporting to replace previous rejectees made up for that. The accepted men were off to Camp Edwards on a late afternoon train, while this evening approximately 150 more will entrain for the Cape after checkups at Worcester and Springfield.

Fourteen volunteers for the U. S. Army Corps, meanwhile, started off for their primary training at Macon, Ga., leaving only 200 more air pilot vacancies for this state's quota.

Among the draftees at the armory was one youth who had come to this country from Canada only a short time ago. He had taken out his first naturalization papers when he decided he'd like to join the Canadian Royal Air Force.

He volunteered, passed Canadian examinations and was told he might be called up in about two weeks, but five days ago the draft caught up with him here.

Another prospect, called from Chelsea, was so sure he'd be in the Army after today, he sold his newsstand yesterday afternoon. He was rejected and is now wondering if he'll be able to buy back his business.

WOMEN URGE PHYSICAL TEST MARRIAGE LAW

It is time Massachusetts had a law requiring a physician's examination and certificate before marriage, the legislative committee on public health was told today by Mrs. Leslie B. Cutler, state representative from Needham.

Mrs. Cutler, herself a member of the committee, was one of about 200 women, many of them prominent, from all sections of the state who appeared before the committee and advocated her bill for such an examination.

CITE REASONS FOR LAW

This bill, as well as a similar one by Dr. Henry M. Landermen of Commonwealth ave., was opposed by Dr. Paul J. Jakmauh, state health commissioner, and Dr.

Nels Nelson, director of infectious diseases in that department.

Both told the committee they opposed the bills because they favor "education as compared with compulsion."

"The bill requires," said Mrs. Cutler to the committee, "that a certificate signed by the physician making examination shall be filed by each applicant with the clerk or registrar, with the notice of intention to marry."

"The certificate simply states that the physician has made a physical examination. The bill does not prevent marriage, but it does protect both applicants for a marriage license."

"The purpose of the law is protection of marital and childhood health."

IN OTHER STATES

"Twenty other states, including New York, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Connecticut and New Hampshire, have similar laws. It is time Massachusetts also had such a law."

Prof. M. Hilliard of Wellesley spoke in favor of the bill, declaring:

"This is not a prohibitive bill. It is an educational measure. It would give sound advice to prospective partners and would protect innocent babes who might otherwise be born with disease."

"An examination of draftees in this state shows that Massachusetts has the lowest incidence of any state in the country."

Safe Break Nets $1100 in Everett

Safe crackers looted the office of the Cherry Valley Dairy in Birch st., Everett, of $1100 early today. Police found a rear window smashed and on investigating the break discovered the thieves had knocked the door off the company safe. All the cash, yesterday's receipts, and numerous valuable papers were taken. The burglars escaped but dropped a hat in their haste. This and fingerprint markings found by detectives on the safe and around a rear door formed clues for the police investigation.

WPA to Cut Off 584,000

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—Work Projects Administration officials indicated today that 584,000 persons would be stricken from WPA employment rolls by June. Drastic payroll cuts, these officials declared, were necessary to keep within the $375,000 supplemental relief appropriation which Congress recently authorized for March, April, May and June. The March work-relief enrollment average was estimated at approximately 1,762,000 compared with a current 1,884,000. Thereafter, officials said, successive reductions would bring enrollment down each month until the June total hits an all-time low of about 1,300,000. This would be 2,650,000 below the all-time high of 3,350,000 on Nov. 1, 1938.

R. I. Divorce For Socialite Mrs. Gilbert

NEWPORT, March 4—Mrs. Adrienne Iselin Gilbert, whose wedding to Dudley Pierrepont Gilbert 14 years ago was a highlight of that social season, was granted a divorce in superior court here, it was disclosed today. Mrs. Gilbert charged neglect to provide. There are three children: Dudley, Jr., 14; Adrienne, 9, and Charles, 4. Gilbert, who maintains the palatial "Four Acres," in Ocean Pt. ave., as well as a New York home, has been a target of the Dies congressional committee for two years on charges he sought to further a "nationalist state" in America. In his testimony at Washington, Gilbert, son of Charles Pierrepont H. Gilbert, one of the country's most brilliant architects, declared he feared a Red revolution, and while he hated "dictatorship" he felt the need of a "strong state." Mrs. Gilbert is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Columbus O'Donnell Iselin of Rest Haven, in Bellevue ave., and New York city.

Woodbury Takes Oath as U. S. Justice

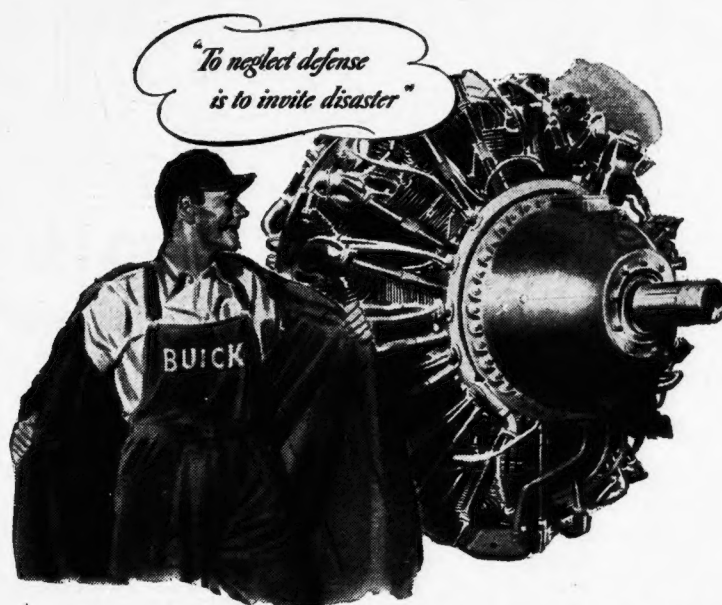

In a solemn ceremony, with seven justices on the bench in the robes of their office, Peter Woodbury, 41, of Bedford, N. H., was inducted today as a judge of the Circuit Court of Appeals for the First District. First to congratulate him was his wife who witnessed the ceremony in the crowded courtroom in the Federal Building. Judge Woodbury, former member of the Supreme Court of New Hampshire, succeeds former Senior Justice Scott Wilson who retired recently. Senior Justice Calvert Magruder conducted the exercises, referring to the work of Justice Wilson and the record of the new member. At the conclusion of his address, Arthur Charron, clerk of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, read the commission signed by President Roosevelt. On the bench with Justice Magruder were Judge John P. Hartigan of the U. S. District Court of Rhode Island; Judge John C. Mahoney of the Circuit Court; Judge George H. Bingham of the Circuit Court, retired; and Judges Hugh D. McLellan, George C. Sweeney and Francis J. W. Ford of the U. S. District Court.

Throngs Back 70-Hr. Week for Firemen

More than 400 persons packed a State House hearing room, while an equal number clamored for admission today, as the legislative committee on public service studied bills which would reduce the working week of firemen from 84 to 70 hours.

One measure was sponsored by the Massachusetts Permanent Firemen's Ass'n, another by former Lieut.-Francis E. Kelly, a third by Jeremiah J. Sullivan.

Arguing that the shorter work-week had been in force for four months in Fall River, where he is a member of the finance commission, Kelly told the committee:

"It created no hardship in that city, but worked out for the benefit of all. We live but once and are here but a short time.

"Why should any man work 84 hours a week? Forty hours weekly is recognized as enough for anyone to work."

Daniel Looney, secretary of the association sponsoring this legislation; John Day of Lynn, another official of this body; Michael McGonigle, legislative agent for the Boston Firemen's Ass'n; Albert Ford of Watertown, and John J. Kelly, retired Lawrence fire captain, were among other who favored the bills.

Scores of attending firemen were ordered out of the hearing for hooting and jeering at Mayor William E. Kane of Woburn as he opposed the legislation.

Boos, hisses and jeers made Kane almost inaudible as he described the firemen as "glamour boys." The firemen were ousted after repeated warnings.

Retail employer groups opposed the state minimum wage commission's proposed scale of wages for approximately 180,000 Massachusetts office workers as "discriminatory and arbitrary." R. Morgan Thompson of Fall River, president of the Massachusetts Council of Retail Merchants, said his organization was not opposed to the proposed rate of $16 a week for full-time experienced workers and $15 for inexperienced workers, but was opposed to an hourly rate of 47 cents and 44 cents for part-time workers in those classifications.

Organized industry urged the Massachusetts Legislature to leave the state's labor laws untouched or face the possibility that strikes might interfere with Bay State participation in the national defense program.

Bills which would provide recognition and aid for members of the Massachusetts State Guard veterans, who served during the first World War and at the time of the Boston police strike, were urged before the committee on military affairs and public safety. George Barnes, representing the Associated Industries of Massachusetts at a public hearing before the labor and industries committee, said that it was "not a good time to talk about changes," and that "we had better leave our labor laws alone," in view of defense production needs.

He opposed a State Federation of Labor petition for changes in Massachusetts' peaceful picketing laws, which would prevent cities and towns from interfering, by local ordinance, with labor's right to picket.

The measures proposed would require municipalities to provide headquarters, as are granted to other veterans groups, to authorize the state to bury those honorably discharged and to provide financial aid when necessary.

Beano Branded As Blackest Of Rackets

Branding Beano as "the blackest of all rackets—one which is taking more than $50,000,000 from the pockets of the people of Massachusetts," former Rep. George W. Roberts of Boston today appeared before the legislative committee on legal affairs on several bills to regulate further or abolish the game.

Roberts said all prosecuting officers of the Commonwealth are responsible for the present condition of affairs, with but a single exception.

"That exception," he said, "is Robert F. Bradford, district attorney of Middlesex County who recently advocated a beano game that was netting $350,000 a year in the name of charity and yet which had given to charity only $2000."

Roberts told the committee: "It cheats charity out of just proceeds, it cheats the public out of prizes, and it directly violates the law. Yet, it has been allowed to continue, practically with impunity."

New Technique of RAF Helps Night War on Nazis

LONDON, March 4 (AP)—The technique of night fighting in the air has been developed so successfully that British pilots now can see their opponents clearly enough to distinguish one type of aircraft from another, the air ministry news service said today.

Describing attacks by British fighters on bombers about to land on their home airbases, the service said:

"The pilot of a fighter command who carried out a night offensive patrol over an enemy bomber airbase reports he saw a German bomber preparing to land and immediately gave chase, following it around on its circuit and firing from close range.

"Ground defenses opened up against our fighter, but had to cease fire on a signal from the bomber, which was in danger of being shot down by German guns.

"The enemy turned, but could not escape. During this attack, the bomber was recognized as a Heinkel III, and after another burst from the British fighter it fell away rapidly and was not seen again."

Martin Sees U. S. Facing Glum Days of Sacrifice

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 4 (INS)—Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Republican national chairman and GOP leader of the House, today warned the American people that the "average citizen faces gloomy days of sacrifice" and that, if present trends continue, "in a few years there will be no real private industry as we have known it."

Martin, a newspaper publisher in private life, who has spent sixteen years in the House of Representatives, expressed fear that the huge government debt and spending program will result in a "lower standard of living" for the average citizen. He added that American youth will pay the "real cost" in lost opportunity.

The Massachusetts Representative asserted that even the habits of the American people will be controlled from Washington if the present trend of government supervision is continued. In the end, when peace comes, he added, it will require aggressive leadership and a vigilant people to "recapture democracy."

"Do you believe there is any danger of a totalitarian government being imposed on the American people?" he was asked.

"We are moving swiftly toward a totalitarian state," replied Martin. "We must be vigilant in our efforts to prevent it."

Q—Do you mean that all private industry is going to be regulated by the government?

A—If we continue present trends, in a few years there will be no real private industry as we have known it. All industry will be dependent on government controls, directly or indirectly, to keep their doors open. That means individual owners will be dependent on the whims of a government bureaucracy to keep their factories operating.

Q—What does the future hold for the ordinary, average citizen?

A—The youth of America are going to pay the real cost of this whole business. Opportunity to get ahead in life, as previous generations have had, will be definitely barred to the rising generations. Most of them will be working for the government, directly or indirectly. The government will take away their savings. The man who has already accumulated security savings for his old age may be all right. The rising generation, however, will find it difficult to save for old age and adversity. The young fellow will only break even, no matter what his income, because of high taxes and high prices, resulting from high taxes and high government spending.

Q—What will that do to the American standard of living?

A—"I am fearful that unless we tackle intelligently our economic problems, we will wake up to find we have a lower standard of living. One of our major tasks is to avert this."

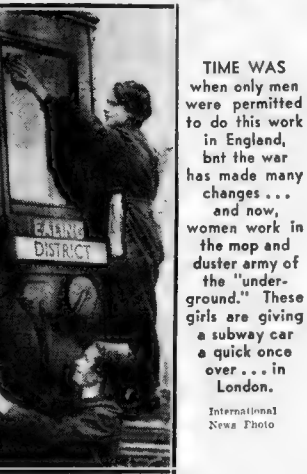

Q—"Are you fearful of the effect on our standard of living of the Administration's deficit spending and the big governmental debt?"

A—"Yes. The new federal debt of $65,000,000,000, recently provided by Congress, means a debt of $493 to every man, woman and child in the United States. The interest charges on that debt will cost each man, woman and child in the United States $12.75 a year. A family of five will have a debt of $2465 hanging over its head and that family's annual interest charges will be $63.75. This is the debt, always, on top of this will be placed the average citizen's share of the tremendous expenditures on operating local, state and federal governments. These promises to be record breaking."

Q—"What will the debt and cost actually mean to the average citizen? How will it affect his daily mode of life?"

A—"It means the average citizen faces many gloomy days of sacrifice ahead."

BERLIN HINTS GREECE MUST DESERT BRITAIN OR ELSE---

BERLIN, March 4 (AP)—Germany's attitude toward Britain's ally Greece was described today as becoming more frigid.

"No man can serve two masters," said an authorized spokesman commenting on the Balkan situation.

While the spokesman did not elaborate, it was assumed the other "master" would be a Balkan alignment under the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo pact.

"We never have said German relations with Greece were good," the spokesman said. "We merely said normal diplomatic relations remained unchanged and this remains today."

IGNORES RED PROTEST

The question of how far Germany is prepared to go in an effort to drive British arms and influence out of Greece was not answered.

The spokesman, relented of German press reports of many thousands of soldiers and heavy tanks in Bulgaria, insisted:

"It is not an army of occupation but a security army prepared for all eventualities. It is our duty to place our entire strength at Bulgaria's disposal to prevent her from becoming the foothold of foreign interests bent on new military adventures."

WAR FOR PEACE!

Dealing with reports Russia had protested to Bulgaria for allowing German troops to cross the Danube, he indicated a Russian protest was none of Germany's business of concern.

"Our policy rests on two foundations," he said. "First, determination to secure and assure for all time peace and stability in the Balkans; second, conformity with the Fuehrer's resolution to strike England wherever she is encountered."

"We are making every effort to prevent England from bringing war into our sphere. The southeastern nations understand this."

He described the relationship of German and Bulgarian troops as "wonderful."

Commenting on persistent reports Yugoslavia will be next to enter the Axis fold, he denied Prince Paul or Yugoslavian Foreign Minister Aleksandar Cincar-Markovic was due in Berlin Thursday to confer with Hitler.

Nazi Plane Delivers Message to Turkey

ANKARA, Turkey, March 4 (AP)—The Turkish cabinet went into session today to consider a special message from Adolf Hitler to President Inonu. The message was delivered by airplane courier.

2 Somaliland Towns Fall

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, March 4 (AP)—British Imperial Forces have captured two more Italian Somaliland strongholds in a drive northward toward the southeastern frontier of Ethiopia, an official announcement said today. The towns are Iscia Baldoa and Buloburt.

Ischia Baldoa is 170 miles northwest of captured Mogadiscio, Somaliland capital, and Buloburt is some 170 miles due north of Mogadiscio.

A middle east command announcement at Cairo said that advance forces thrust beyond these two towns to the vicinity of the Ethiopian frontier.

The announcement added 1000 prisoners had been taken since March 1 alone.

Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, prime minister of South Africa and World War commander of British forces there, has arrived in Nairobi.

ain, including London, the northeast coast and southeast Scotland, but the government declared these assaults were not on a large scale and damage was not extensive.

The Germans said Newcastle was one of their main targets.—Editor's note.

"Total casualties during the night should not prove heavy," the communique said.

German planes for the first time, made use of a new type of "chandelier" flares to light up objectives at one point in East Anglia.

Observers said the new device consisted of a perpendicular chain of white lights, with a brilliant orange flare in the center. When struck by anti-aircraft fire, the flares broke into "thousands" of smaller lights which brilliantly illuminated the area below.

JAPS SET NEW TIME LIMIT FOR FRANCE

TOKYO, March 4 (AP)—Domei Japanese news agency indicated today that Japan for the second time in a week had set a time limit for France to reply to proposals for settlement of her Indo-China border dispute with Thailand.

The news agency said Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka was believed to have told French Ambassador Charles Arsene Henry that a "final answer" was expected by Wednesday noon (10 p. m. E.S.T. today).

If France's answer is received, the news agency suggested that the fifth conference of delegates to the Japan-sponsored peace conference would be held Wednesday night to decide final details.

Matsuoka said the ambassador met for 40 minutes today to discuss a modified plan advanced by Japan for settlement of the dispute but authoritative sources said they failed to reach an agreement.

RAF Pays Visit To Rhineland

LONDON, March 4 (AP)—Cologne was the main target of attacks which British bombers launched last night on objectives in industrial areas of the German Rhineland, an official announcement said today.

In addition, the RAF swept along the German-held coast hitting docks and quays at Brest, Ostend and Bologne and bombing Nazi airbases in occupied France.

The German high command said several persons were killed and injured and homes were damaged in British bombings at unspecified places in western Germany.—Editor's note.

RUSSIA MASSES TROOPS; ANGLO-BULGAR WAR NEAR

In Sofia, Nazi bombers and fighters and transport planes roared across the city toward the Greek and Turkish frontiers near which the Nazis have taken over military airports.

Bulgarian troops with full battle equipment marched through the streets for an undisclosed destination.

Roads were jammed with mud-spattered Nazi military vehicles, and staff officers were arriving.

Reports of Russian reinforcements in Bessarabia followed publication of a Russian protest to Sofia, declaring the entry of German troops into Bulgaria would serve for "extension of the war," and not for "consolidation of peace."

They came as Rumania's mobilization was accelerated under the direction of German staff officers.

Diplomatic dispatches from Bucharest said the Rumanian mobilization, which began late in January, was expected to bring 1,000,000 under arms by March 15.

NAZIS RUSH MORE TROOPS

Most of the reservists being called up, they said, are sent to Russian border regions. Russia, the reports declared, again has ordered Odessa, her big Black Sea port, and Chisinau and Cernauti, in Bessarabia, blacked out and has sent additional motorized units to the frontier from Kiev.

At the same time, German troops poured from Rumania into Bulgaria and heavy Nazi troop movements were said to have started again from Germany across Hungary into Rumania.

These reinforcements, diplomatic sources said, apparently are to replace troops being moved from permanent bases in Rumania toward the Greek and Turkish frontiers of Bulgaria.

Information indicating that Regent Prince Paul of Yugoslavia would go to Germany Thursday to talk with Hitler strengthened belief in diplomatic quarters Yugoslavia quickly would enroll in the Axis three-power pact.

SOFA SILENT ON RED NOTE

But a spokesman in Berlin denied Prince Paul or other Yugoslav political leaders were expected in Germany.

Russia's declaration brought no apparent change in the Belgrade stand. Official sources said Yugoslavia, despite her friendship for Russia, was convinced she could get no help from the Soviet Union if she attempted to resist German pressure to enter the Axis.

Official Sofia sources were silent on the Russian declaration.

Neutral diplomatic sources, however, said it could not fail to have an important effect on the 100,000 Bulgarian peasants and on members of Bulgaria's undercover Communist party since Bulgaria always has been strongly pro-Russian and has looked to Russia for guidance ever since that country liberated her from Turkish rule 63 years ago.

Nazis, British Clash in Libya

ROME, March 4 (AP)—German troops again have clashed with British mechanized forces in Libya, the Italian high command reported today.

The encounter—the second between Nazi and British forces in North Africa since Feb. 24—was said to have resulted in a German victory. The British units were put to flight, the Daily War Bulletin said, and the Germans captured prisoners and war material.

THE DRAPERS, RUTH AND PAUL ARE HERE; CAPTIVATE PLYMOUTH AUDIENCE

Short Hub Run Ends Saturday

By PEGGY DOYLE

Teaming their caviar talents, the Drapers, Ruth and Paul, put on an unusual and genuinely diverting program of sketches and dances at the Plymouth last night.

Alone, each is an acknowledged virtuoso whose appeal is limited to a more or less discriminating public. Together, their amazingly skillful contributions provide a striking, balanced and highly satisfactory evening of entertainment.

Patently, Paul Draper, nephew of Miss Ruth Draper and one of the stage's greatest dancers, is responsible for the more exciting half of the show. His ballet type of tapping to the music of Brahms, Debussy, Handel, Bach, Scarlatti, Strauss and others is original and arresting and likely to make him a more popular celebrity if he doesn't watch out.

CHARMS THE AUDIENCE

For a critical discussion of his performance, you'll have to look elsewhere. But if you would know whether or not you, as an average entertainment-seeker, not too knowing about the technique of the dance, might be expected to enjoy seeing young Mr. Draper's dance novelties, the answer is yes, definitely.

No smarty-pants about the dahnse, we found ourselves unexpectedly surprised into enjoying every tap of the dancing Draper, whose hesitant and terse introductions of his varied numbers were offered with such quiet charm the audience was completely won over.

MISS DRAPER AT HER BEST

Miss Draper's more familiar offerings — her "Italian Lesson," "Dalmatian Feasant in a New York Hospital" and "In a Church in Italy" — find her at her best . . . and, as always, bring one to the realization that she is as fine an actress as the theater boasts.

These two distinguished artists, who are appearing under the sponsorship of S. Hurok will be at the Plymouth for one week only, their engagement closing with the Saturday evening performance.

The opening night program will be repeated tonight. For the Wednesday and Thursday performances, Miss Draper will present two other sketches in her repertoire, "Opening a Bar" and "In County Kerry," these to be succeeded on Friday and Saturday by "Doctors" and "Three Generations in a Court of Domestic Relations."

MARGARET SULLIVAN and Fredric March in "So Ends Our Night," opening Thursday at Loew's twin houses.

'So Ends Our Night' Has Hub Premiere at Loew's Thursday

Based on the famous national magazine serial, Erich Maria Remarque's "Flotsam," "So Ends Our Night," the David L. Loew-Albert Lewin production, co-stars Fredric March, Margaret Sullivan and Frances Dee and is slated for its local premiere at Loew's twin houses on Thursday.

"So Ends Our Night" was directed by John Cromwell and its large supporting cast is headed by Glenn Ford, Anna Sten, Erich Von Stroheim, Roman Bohnen, Leonid Kinskey and Lionel Royce.

Briefly, the action of "So Ends Our Night" is concerned with the moving and poignant love story between Ruth Holland, portrayed by Margaret Sullivan, and Ludwig Kern, played by Glenn Ford. The story is unfolded in several European capitals and told through the eyes of political refugees who shuttle across the continent in order to triumph over oppression.

One of the largest sets built for the production was a carnival set depicting the Prater, known at the "Coney Island of Vienna." At one end was a brilliantly colored merry-go-round, with real animals of all descriptions to ride—giraffes, lions, tigers, elephants, zebras, ostriches. Other highlights on the set included a flea circus, an animal side-show, a shooting gallery and a mind-reading act.

William Cameron Menzies acted as production designer for "So Ends Our Night." Menzies, who won the 1939 Academy award for his work on "Gone With the Wind," designed 130 sets in all for the picture.

One of the nation's outstanding contemporary composers, Louis Gruenberg, was signed by Loew and Lewin to write the musical score, thus marking Gruenberg's debut into the field of Hollywood feature film music.

Featured on the same program will be the latest chapter in M-G-M's popular "Maizie" series, "Maizie Was a Lady," starring Ann Southern in her familiar stranded show-girl characterization. Lew Ayres plays the male lead, with Maureen O'Sullivan, C. Aubrey Smith, Joan Perry, Paul Cavah and Edward Ashley the supporting players.

Cab Calloway's Jive Revue Due at Keith-Boston Thursday

Jumpin' jivin' Cab Calloway, with his sizzling, red-hot Cotton Club Revue, brings his own distinctive hideho music to the RKO Boston stage Thursday for a full week.

This front-ranking sepien director and orchestra are dynamite with audiences throughout the country, particularly when they are giving out with "Minnie the Moocher" and "The St. James Infirmary Blues." Avis Andrews, heading the supporting cast of stars, will present several new vocal selections with original arrangements. Other specialties in this Harlem revue are Cook and Brown, comedy knock about dancers; Anise and Aland, boy and girl acrobatic dancers; the Four Cab Jivers, harmony quartet, and the Six Cotton Club Boys, precision tap dancers.

The first-run Hugh Herbert starring comedy, "Meet the Champ," will share the program honors. "Meet the Champ" introduces Herbert in the role of the wacky guardian of a $10,000,000 estate. On his 28th birthday his nephew is to inherit the estate, provided he gets married the same day. The disappearance of a mere $3,000,000 of the legacy complicates the plot, which features Jean Kelly, Shemp Howard and Anne Nagel.

PROF. JOHN KIRK FOLSOM'S opinions, voiced recently before a college conference at Middletown, Ct., will interest most Americans, married Americans particularly.

The Professor believes that "because of population problems"

A TYPICAL AMERICAN BABY
Should State Have Power to Say Whether He Could Be Born?

it will soon be necessary to have a "license to reproduce."

He says:

"The State will say who should and who should not have children, and will encourage those who should reproduce and help prevent those who should not."

We do not know where the Professor gets his information, nor have we any means of determining what extraordinary power enables him to look into the future.

But we do have a rather strong and confirmed suspicion that he is talking through his academic hat.

Does he believe that millions of Americans who go to church every Sunday would tolerate laws that conflict so violently with their religious beliefs?

Does he think that mothers and fathers who love and treasure their freedom and liberty would stand for a system that makes parenthood a privilege for some and a crime for others?

Furthermore—and the Professor ought to realize it—few Americans would be inclined to trust such important matters to the State.

A Democratic or New Deal Administration might decide that only members of its political party were fit to have children.

When Republicans won control of national affairs, they might make a similar decision and penalize Democrats.

Just the same, the good Professor has accomplished something worth while.

His remarks will cause men and women everywhere to realize how different our life in America would be under a dictatorship.

It is well to think along these lines, especially at this time when misguided and propaganda-deluged Senators and Representatives are considering legislation that would set up the machinery for absolute government in Washington.

"IT'S A WOMAN'S WORLD," says E. V. Durling, whose entertaining and informative column appears daily on this page.

Women, he reveals, control the lion's share of the country's money.

And a woman, Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, has charge of the United States Mint.

Consequently a good theme song for America's husbands would be: "Honey, Can You Spare a Dime?"

Actually, women own 70 per cent of the private wealth of the United States; are beneficiaries of 80 per cent of the life insurance; inherit 75 per cent of the estates that are probated; have 75 per cent of the savings bank accounts, totalling more than $14,500,000,000, and enjoy a collective fortune exceeding $200,000,000,000.

These interesting statistics recall the challenging remarks of Dr. W. Waldemar W. Argow of Syracuse at the baccalaureate service at Stoneleigh College, Rye, N. H., last June.

"I contend," said Dr. Argow, "that women could put an end to war if they only realized the power they have at their disposal."

"When once women begin to assert that power, which is not a mailed fist or a sword, we men will be on our knees begging for mercy."

"Women's power is the most potent on earth. Not a shot need be fired, and not a single law be enacted to enforce it."

We have always agreed with Dr. Argow in this belief. Banded together, American women could exert a sobering influence on masculine warrior instincts.

The real woman thinks of her child, his present security and his future well-being.

"DON'T be a white collar slave; work with your hands!" is an eminent citizen's advice to young men. Guess the gentleman meant to suggest working with both head and hands as mechanics, electricians, carpenters and bricklayers do. Those who work just with their hands don't get very far. I worked with just my hands once, helping build stone walls on a farm. I nearly broke my back. And was paid $18 a month. However, no matter what a young fellow's plans are it might be a good idea to learn a trade. There are plenty of struggling young lawyers who now wish they knew a little about carpentry or bricklaying. A skilled laborer is rarely out of a job. In Switzerland every man, including the professional men, knows at least one trade. I have no trade now, but if and when I get my ranch and there is a night trade school nearby I may study some easy trade that pays a lot of money, like linotype operating.

gers on the trip were Mr. and Mrs. Scott, Charles E. Van Loan, newspaper man, and Scotty's dog, a yellow mongrel pup wearing a five-thousand-dollar collar.

ASKING: Q. Has Garbo's friend, Dr. Gaylor Hauser, ever been married? A. I think not. As previously reported, Dr. Hauser said he believed a wife should be trained like a race horse. How about putting your wife in training, sir? If you do will you invite me to the track the first morning you work the little lady out six furlongs?

MY DAY

WASHINGTON, Monday—Mr. and Mrs. Hendrik Van Loon and Miss Grace Castagnetta, who played with the National Symphony Orchestra at their concert on Sunday afternoon, have been our guests over the weekend.

Saturday morning I had a brief conference with the members of the National Religion and Labor Foundation, who were in Washington for the first national conference on theological education and labor.

They had visited a number of government officials and were interested in seeing the White House. I was glad to have an opportunity of seeing so many young people from theological seminaries, as well as older people who are ministers themselves.

There also were one or two leaders in the labor movement who are members of this group, among them my old friend, Miss Lucy Mason, whom I was particularly glad to see.

YESTERDAY I had an opportunity to spend a little while with Mr. Edward Bruce, and we had a number of guests at luncheon, including Mrs. George Kaufman, Miss Ruth Gordon and Mrs. Alice Duer Miller. The rest of the day was fairly quiet. This morning I am going to New York City, where I have one or two afternoon engagements.

A recent letter has brought my attention to the fact that those of us who do not suffer certain handicaps, often fail to be able to imagine what people go through who are handicapped.

The letter came to me from one of the speech teachers in the New York City school system, who makes a plea that those of us who make fun of the stutterer, should stop and think how hard it is for "a sensitive person who cannot ask a simple question or use the telephone."

She contends that our light-hearted jokes bring shame and suffering to many people. I can quite see that there would be no element of mirth in a joke when your, yourself, are the victim.

THE UNITED STATES Office of Education, which is part of the Federal Security Agency, is issuing a bulletin about an "information exchange" on "education and the national defense." This is a new service and is intended to act as a clearing house for ideas and material on education and national defense.

Teachers who want to help in the defense effort of their country can do three things now. They can tell the office of education what kind of help they would like to have through it.

They can explain what developments they consider important to their particular field of work in the present situation. They can send materials to the exchange which can be used by perhaps other groups in connection with the defense program.

EZRA STONE FACES ARMY CALL

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, March 4—The Art for China exhibit will start March 12 at the Ritz-Tower. Chuzo Tomofzu, the Japanese artist, will participate in this benefit for China's war orphans. "One small way to express my love for peace and hatred for war," he wrote, "is to do what I can for any victims of aggression, wherever they may be." . . . Ezra Stone, the producer-director-actor and radio star, may be induced to arrange advance recordings of his "Aldrich Family" broadcasts—because he'll be missed when he goes into the Army. . . . Radio musicians who kept listening to Merle Pitt's ASCAP music were asked by their broadcast officials to "make the sacrifice of listening to BMI music for a short time more." . . . A new Hollywood quiz program will have children questioning and sitting with a board composed of Dorothy Parker, Donald Ogden Stewart, Ella Winter, Prof. Frank Davis of UCLA and James M. Cain.

HOWARD CAGLE, photographer at El Morocco, has been conscripted into the Army. . . . Cagle, who is 31 years old, served in the Army when he was 18. He was sent, with a detachment of troops to Nicaragua and saw service in the uprising there in 1928. He and four others were ambushed and Cagle was wounded — and honorably discharged — with a pension which he still is receiving. Last year he was duly registered for the draft and the doctors pronounced him physically fit. And so next week he goes into the Army again—while the federal government pays him a pension because, in 1928, he was pronounced unfit for the Army.

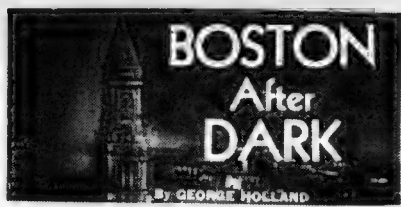

THE FIRST Negro chaplain called to active duty in the Army is Robeson—brother of Paul Robeson, the singer. . . . When Edith Roark opened her new club, The Melody, some weeks ago, Tommy Manville sent her nine orchids. Manville, however, has failed as yet to patronize the place. Last week the nine orchids, all shriveled, were returned to Manville with a note: "We don't want your flowers if we can't have your presence." . . . John Gunther started writing his "Inside Latin America" . . . Sinclair Lewis also started writing his new novel. . . . Rembrandt's "Night Watch," which was reported seized by the Nazis in Amsterdam, is safe. It was cut from its frame and buried in a hideaway. . . . Ballerina Eugene's Delarova invited some guests to a dinner party a few days ago. Her maid quit, but the dancer proceeded to cook the dinner—served it—and then went into the kitchen to wash the dishes. . . . Prince Obolenski, one of the guests, became curious at her absence, walked into the kitchen and discovered her. "A Ballerina washing dishes?" he gasped. "Never. That won't do." . . . Delarova explained about her maid's leaving. . . . "Go and entertain your guests," commanded the Prince. "A Ballerina must never wash dishes." He donned an apron and washed the dishes.

KING ALFONSO, who died last week, once entertained Tamara de Lempicka, the artist, in the Italian villa where he was spending his exile. Alfonso sat for a portrait and then took a walk with the artist. They stopped to chat with a peasant, who asked Alfonso: "What do you do for a living?" . . . "We," replied the ex-ruler, still using the royal We, "are unemployed." . . . Leon Henderson, national defense councilor, who is recuperating in the Caribbean, has been elected The Leading Citizen of Millville, N. J. In acknowledgment of his honor, his Washington colleagues will tender him a party when he returns. . . . A cab driver was hailed by a young man, who bargained for a flat rate for the ride to Dickie Wells' club in Harlem. He was John Jacob Astor, 3rd.

SUPREME COURT JUSTICE Garvin of Kings County, took the stand in a robbery case as a character witness for the defendant. He spoke in whispers. . . . "Speak up, mister," Justice Garvin was instructed, "so that the last man in the jury box can hear you." That order was given by County Judge Sam Lebowitz, who used to hear Garvin deliver this order to many witnesses in the cases Lebowitz tried as defense counsel. And Justice Garvin was Sam's predecessor on the same county court bench Lebowitz now occupies.

EDITH ROARK

HOW DOES IT FEEL to be Knute Rockne's successor, how does he think Boston College will fare next year without his services, and is it true that he recommended Johnny Del Isola to take up where he left off at University Heights? . . . Frank Leahy would have been asked to answer a few "typical" queries of this sort early today—but—

THE "BUT" IS that Coach Leahy of Notre Dame was entering through the going-in door at The Mayfair last night, at the very moment that your reporter was pushing through the going-out door. . . . When scouts reached us to make known that Frank and an attractive young lady they thought was Mrs. Leahy—but who might have been an in-law as were all the others in the party it was too late—or too early—to interview him.

IT WILL BE NECESSARY to explain the mention of Johnny Del Isola. . . . Here is one "possible Leahy successor" whose name has not appeared in stories we have read of the next Boston College coach. . . . Yet, on quite excellent authority, we hear that Johnny, who helped coach the Boston I-ars last year (and pleased both players and Owner Sheldon H. Fairbanks alike), has had strong sponsorship for the B. C. assignment.

MR. DEL ISOLA WAS PROMINENT among the famed "Seven Mules," or "The Seven Blocks of Granite," in the days when Coach Leahy was mentor of the Fordham line. . . . Football experts say that the unassuming Fordham hero is highly intelligent, and a marvel at getting work and spirit out of football players.

IT IS ALSO HIGHLY probable that Johnny would be willing to undertake the task of following a master of his profession at Newton. . . . But how strong his candidacy really is, or whether Coach Leahy actually suggested him as an able lad for the job—we do not profess to know.

WHAT WE DO KNOW—and more in our line, it certainly is—is that Frank Leahy's appearance at The Mayfair was a startling incident. . . . As far as the oldest ringsider at the taverns in our town could compute, this was the famed young grid drillmaster's first appearance at any nightclub in Boston.

THIS CHICO SIMONE'S BAND, which came to the Boston Beachcomber last night, is the same organization which Doris Andrews, one-time cashier at the Metropolitan Theater, managed to encourage through devotion of her time and money to the band's early promotion. . . . Chico has been playing at Ruby Foo's Beachcomber in Providence, and the reports were so good that the Boston spot moved him and his boys north.

THERE IS NO INTERLOCKING management of the two Beachcombers any more. . . . Mrs. Foo is the sole boss of the Providence spot, and Tom Maren now is the solo directing owner of the Boston rhumba-conga-zombie bistro. . . . Mrs. Foo, moreover, would like it known that—rumors to the contrary—she has no interest, either sentimental or monetary, in any Chinese restaurant in Boston save her own original Den.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Georgie Tapps, the excellent dancer, is touring with Ray Noble's band, and Ray—who is slightly British—has acquired enough of the Morse code to be able to decode Georgie's tapping dots

MRS. FRANK LEAHY
Was it she the Mayfair customers saw?

and dashes to this extent: "Faster mister," "slow down, brother" . . . Tapps has used the Morse code in his dances for years, to the especial amusement of the comparatively few who can understand the long and short of it.

HEARINGS RE ASCAP begin tomorrow at the State House. . . . ASCAP is trying to get Irving Berlin and George M. Cohan to come to town to fight the bills. . . . As if ASCAP currently hasn't trouble enough, three of the bills of Beacon Hill would ban the society from operating in this State.

BOB HAS PARKED HIS BAZOOKA

By Louella O. Parsons

Bob Burns

HOLLYWOOD, March 4—Bob Burns will have enough money this year to repair the damages "ole debba-rain" did to his estate. The Gables, in Canoga Park. He has a new job and this time he's going to park the bazooka, his Southern twang, and all the eccentricities that characterized the former Burns movies.

He'll play straight Bob Burns in "A Good Fellow," a play by George S. Kaufman, and he'll make no attempt to be the boy from Van Buren who many people thought resembled the late Will Rogers in real life.

Personally, I think Bob is smart, for you can not keep up one type of part on the screen and get away with it interestingly enough, he is doing this picture for Paramount after a year's absence. You'll see him as a small town fellow who is always joining different lodges but who does a great deal for the town. . . . So, Bob is the lad who will bring Bob to the screen.

SIMONE SIMON

souls to the silver-tongued Daniel Webster.

SIMONE SIMON telephoned me yesterday from Chicago to tell me she is coming back to Hollywood to play in William Dieterle's picture, "A Certain Mr. Scratch."

"Just five minutes ago," said Simone, "they told me it was all set and I wanted you to know first because I had promised to tell you my news."

She goes on a personal appearance tour until the 20th, then heads for Hollywood. You may not recognize "A Certain Mr. Scratch" but it's really "The Devil and Daniel Webster," by Stephen Vincent Benet, a short story included in a volume of prize classics. The idea is fantastic but under the skillful guidance of Dieterle it will probably be very amusing. It's about the devil, who loses a battle for souls to the silver-tongued Daniel Webster.

RAN INTO ALLAN DWAN at the races Saturday and after I finished my session at the typewriter and watched the big race, I sat down and talked with him. Allan and the Music Corporation of America, through Jules Stein, are delivering another of those package deals of star and director affairs.

Allan as producer and director will make "Design for Laughter" with Edgar Bergen, Fibber and Molly McGee. The same writer, James V. Kern, who scripted the highly successful Kay Kyser movies for Dave Butler, is writing the story under Allan's guidance.

I suppose Charlie McCarthy will do his stint, too, for Edgar without Charlie would be like Fibber without Molly.

LAURA HOPE CREWS is packing her trunks today for a trip to Chicago and I don't expect we shall be seeing her for many a day. She has the role of the sweet, kindly sister in "Arsenic and Old Lace," who murders men and buries their bodies in the cellar. Laura was very thrilled for Chicago is a grand theater town and the play was such a hit in New York.

Eric Shannon plays the other old lady, while Eric von Stroheim will be seen as the goody lad who thinks he is Boris Karloff and does all the horror deeds in the Karloff movies. I have an idea Warners will put Laura's name right down for the movie version of "Arsenic and Old Lace." She is such a swell actress.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: What a week-end! The $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap topped by Joan Whitney Payson's party, which went on until dawn. Irene Selznick was the only one who could boast about Bay View. She had a lunch on the Pelletier thoroughbred.

Gene Markey said, in his opinion, Mrs. Tucky French Astor was the smartest woman at the Payson party. That was really a compliment, for all our film beauties were there, including Claudette Colbert, who looked radiant in a bright red gown. Mrs. Astor, who is the house guest of the Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., saw a real Hollywood party.

Tyrone Power and Annabella brought Richard Whorf and he is really a good looking lad. He is with the Lunt and Fontanne show but may remain here; Kay Francis had a new hairdo that completely changed her appearance, which her heart throb, Ivan Goff, admired greatly. She also has her holiday tan aided by a week in Palm Springs.

Quick Sandwich Magic

By MARTHA LEE

HAVEN'T YOU often admired women who always seem prepared to invite people in on the way home from the show, or an impromptu bridge party for a "sandwich and a cup of tea"? These women always seem to have something in the refrigerator that will make up delicious combinations for sandwiches that have eye appeal and are so good that they tempt any appetite.

Substantial sandwiches have achieved great popularity on such occasions as well as for lunches and suppers at any time. This is because the modern woman has discovered that sandwiches are not just "two slices of bread with a thin layer of meat and the like between them." She has learned to experiment with new combinations and sometimes to create new ones to her own liking.

Here is a combination of flavors that will call for "repeats" on many occasions.

SALMON-OLIVE-NUT SANDWICHES

1½ cups flaked salmon
½ cup chopped or sliced ripe olives
½ cup chopped walnut meats
Mayonnaise
Lemon juice
Loaf of bread
Butter

Quick-melting cheese
Combine salmon, olives, nuts, sufficient mayonnaise to give spreading consistency, and a few drops of lemon juice, and blend thoroughly. Trim crusts from whole loaf of bread; cut loaf lengthwise into thin slices. Spread each slice with butter and then with filling. Roll each slice and pin together with picks. Place a thin slice of cheese overlapping sides and place under broiler to melt cheese and toast bread. Remove picks and cut each roll into three equal portions. Serve hot. Makes about one dozen sandwiches.

Salad sandwich fillings are among the most enjoyable of the various mixtures which we use as interior decoration for two slices of bread. A rich potato salad filling for sandwiches has its points even when the larger groups, which are the usual reason for its services, are not in evidence.

POTATO SALAD SANDWICHES

To ½ cup of diced potatoes add ½ cup of chopped or sliced ripe olives, 1 chopped hard cooked egg, 1 sweet cucumber pickle, and 1 teaspoon of finely chopped onion. Moisten with mayonnaise and season with salt and tabasco sauce added lightly. Serve with ripe olives garnishing triangular cut sandwiches.

CHILI CHEESE SANDWICHES

2 slices of bread for each sandwich
Mayonnaise
2 slices of cheese for each sandwich
Chili sauce
3 slices of bacon, broiled, for each sandwich

Spread bread, from which crust is removed, with mayonnaise. On half the slices, place slices of cheese, and spread cheese with chili sauce. Lay bacon on next and top with second slices of cheese and then bread. May be toasted, if desired.

ROQUEFORT AND DRIED BEEF SANDWICHES

6 thin slices of bread
6 slices of chipped beef
1½ ounce pkg. Roquefort cheese
Mayonnaise

Spread slices of bread with mayonnaise. Cream cheese and soften with mayonnaise. Place one slice of beef on each slice of bread, roll, and secure with toothpicks. Toast and serve hot.

PEANUT BUTTER AND BACON SANDWICH

Spread slices of bread with peanut butter. Cover them with finely chopped or thin slices of uncooked bacon. Broil slowly until bacon is crisp and delicately brown, or bake in a moderately hot oven until the bacon is cooked. Serve with Spanish olives.

Cleansing and Over-night Cream

You Can Be Beautiful

EVEN THE MOST YOUTHFUL complexion will inevitably show signs of fatigue . . . and if you're well over voting age . . . and far from a pampered, waited-on lady to boot . . . your skin inevitably needs a stimulating pick-up . . . and probably needs it often! The crispness of your spring organically should make as flattering a frame for your face as it does Anna Neagle . . . and it can if you lavish on your complexion the lush strawberry cream mask which Arline Gould declares is a triumph among rejuvenators . . . and in addition goes on a spectacular special this week.

A Bracer for Tired Faces

By ARLINE GOULD

IT NEVER FAILS . . . it's when you're worn to a frazzle, and your face looks it . . . that you have to keep going . . . that a vitally important date looms . . . that you have to meet someone who is the keynote to success or failure in your chosen career . . . and then, when your looks cry for help, you'll be glad of a rejuvenating strawberry cream mask that's considered a great triumph in a famous cosmetic line.

Life's like that . . . when you're rested and fresh as a rose, craving a good dash of excitement . . . things turn slowly as a millwheel. Just let that fatigue-low hit your complexion . . . and watch things pop!

Of course, you might invest in an hour or two of facial treatment in the costliest salon . . . and top it with a longish nap . . . or you might get the beauty equivalent of facial and sleep out of this fragrant strawberry cream mask!

Don't think this is a simple concoction, whipped up blithely . . . this a scientifically stimulating mask which is soothing and smoothing to your skin without drawing or over-stimulating it. And for the first time in its history, the $2.50 size jar is going for the pin money price of $1 . . . available only for a week and a half!

It can transform you in twenty minutes from a drab-faced shadow into a radiant creature with a damask rose cheek . . . and that's enticement today as it was when the Bronte heroines slapped their own faces in private to stimulate pulsating color.

Delicious with the fragrance of fresh, ripe strawberries . . . and tinted like strawberry marshmallow icing . . . put the rejuvenating mask all over your face . . . and during its twenty minutes it will remain intact, not hardening or drying.

So marvelous is the effect that once or twice a week is quite enough for a treatment which also leads to a noticeable refinement of skin texture . . . poetically clear and smooth!

If you'd like to know about this strawberry cream mask, available for the first time at $1 for the $2.50 size, phone Arline Gould, 311 Ely 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston Daily Record, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Make Your Doorway a Bower of Roses

What a cheery welcome this doorway gives, framed in a bower of roses and flowering shrubs!

Foundation planting is often so commonplace. But with a little planning and a very little care, by choosing the right shrub for the right spot, you may make the setting for your home as enchanting as you wish.

Flank your entrance with the larger shrubs and, for a really striking effect, choose those whose flowers contrast with your house color. Pink-blossoming weigela stands out against white clapboard, white spirea is charming against brick.

Over your doorway trellis nothing is lovelier than the climber, Dr. Van Fleet, which bears beautiful, big pink roses. Beneath your windows, where height isn't wanted, plant dwarf bush roses. Polyantha varieties are vigorous, have a long season and bloom in a riot of colors—orange scarlet, light pink, white. For the most part your roses need very little attention. Many kinds will do well even in a poor soil, if you give them a quart of liquid manure every week or ten days during the blooming season—before watering or before rain.

MAKE your doorway a mass of color by planting the proper shrubs. Home planting is easy and inexpensive.

And all your roses will be happier for a top dressing of wood ashes in spring.

To complete your garden, of course, you want beds of colorful perennials. Not too early to start your seeds!

Directions for starting seeds, for combining plants for beautiful color effects are given in our 40-page booklet, Gardening Made Easy. Tells how to plan and budget gardens, plant trees, roses and gouds. Advises on shrubs, vines. Has instructions for making delightful rock gardens, lily pools, herb and vegetable gardens.

Send 15 cents in coins for our booklet, Gardening Made Easy, to Boston Evening American, Home Institute, 109 West 19th St., New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

ANOTHER juvenile crime wave—this time in San Francisco. Teen-age baby bandits stealing, slugging, until the whole town's sitting up in shocked protest and Municipal Judge Peter J. Mullins has vowed to clean up the whole unsavory mess or know why.

First off, he puts the Juvenile Detention Home straight on the spot, after a surprise visit revealed conditions unbelievable in any civilized community. Youngsters were locked in their barred cells without running water, decent hygienic facilities... given only one hour's exercise, even on Sundays and holidays, sleeping on cots which lack mattresses or springs.

Fire escapes also locked, without signs to indicate their location, although this violates state laws. Only two night attendants to serve four floors of trapped boys and girls in case a blaze should start.

"THEY'RE treated worse than the animals in the city pound!" stormed his Honor. And in San Francisco's face red! But think twice, stranger, before you cast a self-righteous sneer. Chances are, YOUR home town juvenile detention or correction facilities may be just as bad, or worse. And you'd be equally mortified to discover the fact.

For despite our proud boasts, most Americans are far better informed about, and usually more interested in, the inmates of the local zoo than in the handling of their own young delinquents. A tough charge, but we've asked for it.

So what's the answer? Better detention quarters? But detention homes are where young bandits end, not where they start. Why end just where they start. Most of us think they start "across the tracks," in noisome slums. And we'd probably agree with the aroused school board and Parent-Teacher Ass'n. of San Francisco that what such underprivileged youngsters need is a happier environment. More wholesome recreation, particularly at night.

All of which sounds fine, and I hope Mom, Pop and Teacher go through with it. But is it really the reason for, or the answer to, America's Dead End Kids? I don't think it is. I THINK THE PROBLEM COMES MUCH, MUCH NEARER HOME and that these same "enlightened" indignant parents and teachers are as much responsible for it as the slums, pool rooms or crooked politicians. THE FACT is that Baby Bandits are being bred almost as abundantly "north of the tracks" as south. They are being bred in comfortable, adoring, indulgent homes... in advanced lavishly equipped classrooms. And they are the direct result of our adult deterioration in standards.

Where does our tragically increasing juvenile delinquency start? As a mother... and a worker with youth for the past 20 years... I believe it starts in our American homes and schools and in the attitude of the average "respectable" American citizen.

Newburyport Court Puts on Eaton Day

NEWBURYPORT, March 4—Things were fairly well mixed today among the Eatons, what with 18-year-old Betsy Eaton's parents wanting her to marry an Eaton but not wanting her to marry an Eaton and with the girl herself of an Eaton opinion vice-versa.

Five Eatons in all, in three families in two states, with one of the five on the bounding map, some where, were all snarled up in the case—with today's upshot being that Special Justice Oscar H. Nelson in district court continued it all until Thursday.

Betsy Eaton was in on warrants obtained by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Eaton of Collins rd., Salisbury, charging her with being a stubborn child and with being idle and disorderly.

The court was told by counsel that Betsy insists on marrying one Wilson Eaton, 23, of Seabrook, N. H., no relation, while her parents want her to marry another man named Eaton, also no relative, who is now in the United States Navy. She was arrested last night after being found at the Seabrook home of Wilson Eaton, with whom, according to counsel, she had filed marriage intentions "somewhere in New Hampshire," with Thursday the last of the five-day interval. Judge Nelson, after hearing the girl plead not guilty to the charges, continued the case and instructed her meanwhile to remain with her parents and not to leave the state or to marry before the case is decided.

1252 U. S. Mail Sacks Lost on Sunken Ships

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—The Postoffice Department reported today 1252 sacks of United States mail were lost by the sinking of the steamship Siamese Prince Feb. 13 off the coast of Scotland. The department previously reported the loss of 1401 sacks of this country's mail on various ships sunk during 1939 and 1940. The ship sailed from New York Feb. 3 for the United Kingdom with mail for Great Britain, Ireland, Malta, Iceland and Faeroe Islands.

DON'T GET A LOAN

UNTIL YOU READ THIS TABLE

You can borrow $100 if you can pay back $6.41 a month

You can get a personal loan of $20 to $300 at Household Finance at rates substantially below the lawful maximum—if you can repay in small monthly installments.

Payments to fit your purse

You may choose the most convenient repayment plan from the table below. Suppose that you need $100 and you can readily repay $9.75 a month. Your installmentment will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.41 a month for twenty months will also repay a $100 loan.

See the sample loans and payment plans in the table. (Loans also made in other amounts and for other periods.) Payments in the table repay everything. Household's rate of 2 1/2% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100.

and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100 is less than the maximum permitted by the Small Loan Law and is the same to everyone.

Simple to borrow

We require no salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) No credit inquiries made of friends or relatives. And you don't have to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the papers with you.

Find here the cash loan you need

BLONDIE

Flash! Man Bites Dog!

MILDRED WILLIAMS stood near the tobacco shop. In five more minutes she would see him, and seeing him might change everything. He'd know, just by looking at her. He'd know the way she felt. He'd know that she was mad about him, and knowing, he might pretend he didn't see her love.

He might be casual and friendly and very gay in order to save her embarrassment and himself a scene. Men were like that, she told herself, bleakly. He might be very jolly and impersonal and in that case, she wouldn't be able to do a thing. She wouldn't be able to tell him how she felt. She'd have to be jolly and gay also—and let him go.

After all, you can't come out and ask a man to marry you. You can't blurt out your feelings for him. She was modern, but not as modern as that. She had had all the benefits of that "freedom" which the feminists had fought for long ago. She could vote. She made a living. She lived her own life. She was not financially dependent upon any human. But the social and economic freedom she enjoyed didn't help her with Sam Acker. Whichever way the world traveled, she thought tiredly, it was still a man's privilege to ask—or remain silent.

She had one more minute to wait. Fleeting, she played with the idea of leaving. She could turn and flee. He would go to the station, take his train, and never know how close she had come to making a fool of herself. Nor would she be brought face to face with the fact that, knowing of her love, he chose to ignore it.

"Waiting long, Mill?" Sam Acker was tall with a gaunt frame. "I got here as soon as I could."

She gave him a bright smile. "I was early," she assured him. "I suppose you're all packed?"

"Bags checked, ticket bought—tauk, and riding through the Montclair reservation. They had laughed and played and been happy, and now he was going away, and she would be left with the remnants of a memory.

"IT WAS SWELL!"

She couldn't meet his eyes. She couldn't chatter inanely. She wanted to bury her head in her arms and weep stormily. She wanted to fling herself upon him, begging abjectly until he consented to take her with him. Instead, she said, "You're picking up the boat at Baltimore?"

He nodded. "Another fellow and his wife are leaving from there.

maybe you'll be coming back—and we can carry on from here."

He wigwagged impatiently. She wanted to cry out, watching him. He needn't be afraid she was going to bother him, she told herself savagely. He needn't be afraid she was going to dog his footsteps, hang around his neck, create a scene. She'd show him. If it was the last thing she did, she'd maintain her attitude of good humor, amused indifference. She'd gather around her the shreds of her pride, and put on an act which would not only protect her, but convince him of her utter casualness.

In reply to his sudden request, she murmured, "I'm afraid I can't go to the train with you." Her voice was level as she continued, "I'll just have time to do some shopping before I keep a cocktail date."

He watched her closely. She was gathering up her bag and gloves. Suddenly he blurted out, "Don't go. Not yet."

"Have a nice time," she advised, brushing off his restraining hand. She turned away swiftly. "Drop me a line when you feel like it," she finished hastily and fled.

It was dreadful, blinking like that, she told herself, blinking rapidly. It was rude and surly. But to stay was fatal. Impossible to hold back the tears another moment. Outside, she paused for a moment.

The winter wind lashed at her, blowing her hair, whipping her skirt. Like a dinge, the hum of the traffic took up the words, "He's gone—he's gone," and flung them back at her.

Irrelevantly she remembered Claudia Raine's wisecrack the night she had met Sam Acker. "This is Sam Acker, Milly, but don't let his looks fool you. Underneath that handsome exterior he's as cold blooded as a dynamo."

She had turned to him and murmured, "What—no illusions?"

And he had replied cheerfully, "Nary a one."

She hadn't paid much attention to the warning, and in the weeks which followed she'd forgotten it completely. But today—struggling toward the corner where she could get a cab—she remembered. After the damage had been done—after falling head over heels in love with the man—after practically throwing herself at him, and been tossed back to herself—today, she'd remembered the warning, and cursed herself softly for her stupidity.

At the corner she paused a moment, waiting for a cruising cab to halt. And in that moment, she felt strong arms around her.

Turning, she saw him. Inanely she gasped, "Sam, you'll miss your train."

SAM VOWS LOVE

"I don't care," he cried, releasing her a trifle, but not removing his arms. Oblivious to the delighted curiosity of the bystanders, he roared, "You must have known the way I felt—I told myself all along you knew and wouldn't give me a break. You've sidestepped it, every time. And this is one time I want an answer. This is one time your gaiety and chatter isn't going to throw me. Will you or won't you come with me? It isn't bad—being an engineer's wife."

She stared at him, her heart pounding. Here he was, the soul of a frame any words, his voice drowned her out. "When I saw you stalk out of that restaurant—while I heard you chatter about things that didn't mean anything—well, I thought, the only thing she can do is turn me down flat."

His eyes were bleak with longing, his overcoat flapped around his legs. She started to smile—then she giggled wildly.

"My bags," she gasped. "I've got to pack."

His face reddened. "I told your roommate to send them to the train. That's why I wanted you to go to the train with me."

She gazed at him in astonishment as he muttered: "You were always so darned impersonal, and casual—I thought, well, kidnapping isn't so bad. If you didn't want to go on, I'd have let you off at Norfolk."

In the taxi, she snuggled close to him. As though forcing himself to be fair, he murmured, "Panama isn't like here, you know. There isn't so much freedom for women."

"Hah," she gasped, relieved, "Freedom—hah!"

ready to go," he told her cheerfully.

He guided her through the crowds, and when they came to a little restaurant he motioned her in. "It's quiet here," he explained. "I thought we could talk. I have almost an hour and a quarter."

A CAUTIOUS MAN

She had not known how hard it would be to talk with him. Being so close, she felt the separation of his impending departure. She was stripped by the knowledge that he wanted to leave—that he welcomed their separation. She fought the dull, hungry ache in the pit of her stomach.

He was ordering. Now and then he glanced over to catch her nod of agreement.

"How do you feel about this trip?" she asked when he turned back to her.

For a moment he didn't say anything. The waiter brought cocktails and she toyed with her glass. "I'll miss all this," he began slowly, as though he were editing his words. The thought flashed through her mind that he didn't want to say things which might bind him to her. She was furious with him for his heartless caution, furious with herself for melting at the mere thought of going with him. "Yep," he grinned, "we sure had fun."

She nodded mutely. Six weeks ago she had been a sensible, almost efficient young woman. She had had the proper dates with the proper young men. She had enjoyed a theater party, a concert then. A few friends in for bridge, a small group in for drinks, a small group in for drinks, a small group in for drinks. She shared her apartment with another girl. They were smartly turned out successful young business-women—both of them. They were the products of feminine freedom.

Six short weeks ago! Then, because she had gone to the Raine's anniversary party, because a friend of a friend of a friend had chanced to drop in, bringing Sam Acker—here she was at the moment, eating her heart out because Sam acknowledged that the past few weeks had been merely fun!

They had danced high up on roof gardens, they had played in the surf out on the south shore. They had gone fishing at Mon-

"Being an engineer's wife can't be much fun," she murmured.

He gave her a long look. "An engineer's wife is not much different from a grocer's wife. She goes with her husband."

She whipped out her compact and powdered her nose. "Don't be so touchy," she advised him, sharply.

He stretched out his hand to touch her wrist. "Mil," he began softly. She looked up at him. He could see it—there in her eyes—all the love and longing she had for him. She knew he could see it, and to hide her shame she smiled a shade too brightly.

When he dropped his gaze the blood mounted to her cheeks. She forced her voice to be bright. "It was swell knowing you," she chattered. "After five years in Panama

BILL CORUM SAYS:

Donovan Justified In Helping Ambers

NEW YORK, March 4—Arthur Donovan, one of our most competent fight referees, raised a fine point of officiating in his handling of the Jenkins-Ambers fight Friday night. At least twice he stepped between the rocking and reeling Ambers and the slashing Texan, and once went so far as to pull the belabored Lou off the ropes and whirl him out into mid-ring where he could find a little running room.

Jenkins complained bitterly about this in his dressing room after the fight, and not without a certain amount of justice.

"He (Donovan) kept asking Ambers if he was all right and how good he was feeling," complained the somber sordough from the cactus belt. "But he never asked me how ah was feeling. Ain't I got a fair right to feel, too?"

Admitting, as I say, that there were grounds for such a beef, I still feel Donovan did the right thing and refereed a good fight. Perhaps not technically, but in a broader and more important sense.

Technically, I suppose, no referee is entitled to pull a fighter off an opponent that he has on the verge of a knockout, and then permit the fight to continue. Such action may completely change the outcome of the contest, as in this case it bade fair to do through the next four rounds. Had Ambers really come on to win, I don't believe anybody who saw the fight will deny that Donovan would have rated an assist.

Ambers didn't, as Donovan perhaps felt reasonably sure he couldn't. Yet it was possible. And some night such interference on the part of a referee may work out that way.

Yet I am convinced that from a broad viewpoint and for the best interest of boxing, Donovan was justified. That he did, as he usually does, the right thing.

Boxing is not like baseball, football and other sports. There is always the chance that a fighter can be beaten too severely. Be hit once too often when he is helpless or nearly so. Wasn't a fighter killed in the ring in Chicago only last week?

Now I don't know how ever the most competent referee is going to know how badly a fellow really is hurt unless he asks him. Or how he is going to ask him if he doesn't break the two men long enough to do it.

Especially is this true with an experienced veteran such as Ambers. Obviously Donovan wanted to give Lou every chance. He also knew that the Herkimer slider would be the best judge of his true condition, unless he was out on his feet.

Even when he went down and practically out in the seventh, Lou was trying to grin at friends on the press benches. He still knew the score and he also knew it was heavily against him.

Much more important than the outcome of a fight, even to the $2 better after he has stopped screaming for his dough, is that the chances of serious injuries be reduced to a minimum. That there be as little blood and brutality in what is at best a rather bloody, brutal business. Thus I prefer to see a referee handle a fight with good judgment rather than with a too strict adherence to technicalities.

Nevertheless, it remains true that some night a referee is apt to be too kindly disposed toward some youngster who is getting his lumps, and the deprived young man is going to bounce back and shellack the fellow who actually deserved to win.

Ambers nearly did it. It's something for Donovan and his fellow officials to keep in mind.

Glennon Finally Takes Trophy

MIAMI, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Dogged persistence finally has won the Judge Emil S. Auerbach hydroplane trophy for Tommy Glennon, 32-year-old Westchester, Pa., powerboat enthusiast.

Glennon started trying for the $500 trophy when it was offered in 1937 by S. Mortimer Auerbach as a memorial to his father, the late Judge Auerbach. He built three boats during the next four years and raced for the trophy annually, but the best he could do was third in 1938.

But the young trucking executive kept trying. He built another boat, the Wild Goose VI, and finally captured the trophy yesterday on his fifth attempt.

BRUINS CAN LOSE LEAFS BEATING BLACK HAWKS

Favored with four home games in their six remaining tilts, the Bruins set sail tonight for undisputed N. H. L. leadership at the Boston Garden with the Chicago Blackhawks offering the opposition.

Deadlocked for the league lead with those pesky Toronto Maple Leafs, the B's can set out there alone tonight, for the Leafs are idle. If the Rossmen do move in the chances are that they'll stay there right to the finish and win their 10th Prince of Wales Trophy. This feeling is based on the fact that the B's had their last tough road hop over the past week-end, playing Toronto Saturday and Chicago the following day. If they didn't lose any ground there, the boys figure to roll right on through.

SCHEDULE AGAINST LEAFS

Six games remain, including tonight's game. Chicago, Canadiens, Toronto and Detroit will be played at home, while single trips will be made to New York, for the Americans, and to Detroit to close the season with the Wings.

Toronto also has six games, but four of them are away and but two at home. On the road they have to meet the Rangers Sunday and the Bruins the following Tuesday, which may be the spot that will knock them out of the running.

But enough of the race and back to tonight's game.

The Bruins management, anxious to grab tonight's affair, flew the entire squad back from Chicago. The chartered plane left Chicago at 11:15 yesterday morning and landed at 3:15. This four-hour flight was the fastest passenger trip ever made from Chicago to Boston.

Because of this flight the Bruins were able to have a full night's rest at home while the Hawks traveled the usual sleeper route.

This slight advantage may be just enough to make the difference this evening for the Blackhawks can't be underestimated.

BRUINS HOLD EDGE

In Chicago Sunday night, the Bruins rang up a quiet, tie-goal lead and thought they could coast home. The Hawks soon snapped them out of their lethargy by slapping home the same number of goals and forcing Roy Conacher to pull the hat trick for victory.

The Hawks have tangled with the Bruins seven times this year and have won two, tied two and lost three. A victory could give them an even split with Les Bruins for the year.

But the chances are that the Hawks won't find the Bruins doing any coasting tonight. That league fight is too close and the Rossman went the top spot.

It not only means choice of the first, second, fourth and seventh playoff games, but the club that winds up out front gets the larger purse to split up after the receipts are divided.

Everybody is in shape and the Bruins intend to take an undisputed possession of first place tonight.

Bill Cowley should have tied Joe Primeau's record for assists with 37 in Chicago Sunday night, but the official scorer of the Windy City failed to give the Cowboy an assist on a play he set up for Roy Conacher... with six games to go, Cowley is a cinch to smash the figure made by the Toronto center back in 1932.

CHICAGO: W. H. Mackay, March, Allen, Herzeheimer, Dahlstrom, Thoms, R. Carre, Chad.

ROBBED by a Chicago official from equalling Joe Primeau's National Hockey League record for assists, Sunday night, Bill Cowley, Bruins' center, plans to put full pressure against the Hawks at the Garden, to not only equal the record but pass it.

Cowley Shoots for Record

MONTREAL, March 4 (AP)—Boston's Bill Cowley, like a good many other would-be record breakers, is finding that the last few points needed to establish a new mark are the hardest to get.

Cowley, a great play-maker and easily the best in that department in the National Hockey League this season, is aiming at the circuit's record of 37 assists, established by Joe Primeau of Toronto in the 1931-32 season.

A couple of weeks ago the trick looked easy, but in the past two weeks he has made only one goal and one assist and he's still one short of the record.

B. C. DELAYS NAMING COACH

After meeting for the second time, the Boston College graduate board of athletics announced that no decision had been reached in selecting a coach for the Eagles to succeed Frank Leahy who has gone to Notre Dame.

It was reported that six big coaches of the nation have applied for the berth over the week-end. One of the names prominently mentioned was that of Arthur (Dutch) Bergman, coach at Catholic University for 11 years, who resigned his post Sunday.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

MIAMI, FLA., March 4—Joe Cronin's Red Sox will come here for the week-end for Saturday and Sunday games with the Giants . . . These exhibition contests will give the thousands of New England folks in this section of the country an opportunity to secure a pre-view of the 1941 Sox.

I look for Ulysses J. Lupien, Jr., former Harvard star and son of State Director of Civil Service, Ulysses J. Lupien, to prove one of the best of the Sox newcomers . . . Lupien is a first baseman and is looked upon by Cronin and Eddie Collins as the logical candidate for this post when Jimmy Foxx steps aside . . . Young Lupien batted for .307 with Little Rock last season . . . In ten late season contests with the Sox the former Harvard star had a batting mark of .474 . . . Lupien fielded for .988 at Little Rock, while he didn't make a miscue in the games he played for the Sox.

Lupien is only 23 years of age, and so his baseball future is very much ahead of him . . . While Foxx is still one of the greatest stars in baseball, double X cannot be expected to keep going on indefinitely . . . Meanwhile Lupien will be an excellent understudy in the event Foxx gets injured or has an attack of sinus . . . So far this year Foxx has not been troubled by sinus and the famous slugger is hopeful that he will have no recurrence of the sinus condition.

The games with the Giants will give Cronin an opportunity to see how some of his kid pitchers look against big league hitting.

Making 'Book' on Sands at Miami Beach

THEY HAVE BETTING de luxe at Miami Beach . . . One can sit inside of his cabana drinking Scotch or champagne cocktails and wager on every race at Hialeah Park or Tropical Park . . . Many of the cabanas are equipped with telephones over which one may secure the latest racing returns and make wagers . . . At other places along the beach the "bookies" make their rounds before each race, taking bets and telling the bettors the results of previous races.

"It is a much more satisfactory way of betting on the big days at the track," one Boston man told me . . . "One does not get pushed around by people in mutual lines, and one can cool off in the water if your horse runs out of the money."

The beach has been converted into a fairyland as gorgeous new hotels have been added to the hundreds of magnificent hotels already here . . . At night thousands of lights in the hotels and along the beach make sections of Miami Beach appear like Times Square in New York . . . Many new apartments have also been built here . . . Unfortunately there have not been enough cash customers to fill all of the places . . . This has been a good break for the visitors as the rates have not been increased as much as had been planned . . . Many of the new spots have kept their January rates.

I met Fred Crosby and Mrs. Crosby of Jamaica Plain at the track . . . They have been here for three weeks and have been stopping at one of the ocean front hotels.

Eddie Mead, manager of Hammering Henry Armstrong, and Mrs. Mead are stopping at Harry Voller's Palm Court Hotel . . . Eddie's health is better . . . At the time of the last Armstrong-Zivic bout Mead was ill and was unable to see the bout . . . Eddie sends a hello to Rip Valenti, Harry Kelley, Johnny Buckley, Jack Sharkey, Al Lacy and to his host of other Boston friends.

As Miami's Lights Sparkle

JACK DEMPSEY and Jack Kearns are pals once more . . . Dempsey has agreed to referee or aid in any other way possible at the series of boxing shows Kearns will stage in Florida for the British relief.

It was Boston and New England, on parade at the Widener Challenge Cup race at Hialeah . . . Looking around the Turf Club and clubhouse I saw Charles F. Adams, president of Suffolk Downs, and Mrs. Adams; Sheldon H. Fairbanks of Wonderland Park and Mrs. Fairbanks, Judge James E. Dooley of Narragansett Park and Mrs. Dooley, Atty. Bernard Killion of Brookline and Greenbush and Mrs. Killion, Atty. Matt McGrath and Mrs. McGrath.

Henry Fitzgerald and Mrs. Fitzgerald also attended as did Tom Thorp, steward at the three New England tracks, Jim Connors, chairman of the board at Narragansett Park, Jack Letendree of Narragansett Park, Dan Carroll and Mrs. Carroll, Bobby Goldman, Senator Mike Cohen, Judge Sam Nuchols of Narragansett Park, J. H. Carr, Albert Daley, Bobby Dever, Mr. and Mrs. George Gordon, Dave Yaffe, Attorney Frank Burns and Attorney Tom Kelly.

Joe and Harry Stevens, who operate the concessions at Hialeah, asked me to send a hello for them to Bill Grimes who is at San Antonio, Texas, with the Bees.

Sheldon Fairbanks declared that the success of the Hialeah meeting indicated that racing is all set for another big season. Sheldon will return to Boston this week to assist in making arrangements for the 1941 season at Wonderland Park . . . Sheldon is one of the few sports leaders who has had experience both in horse and dog racing . . . Fairbanks has raced a stable of horses for several years, while for the last two seasons he has been associated with Wonderland Park in an executive capacity.

Handsome diamond-headed gold medals will be presented newly crowned champions in the amateur division of the 1941 American-Record Grand Candlepin bowling tournament.

These beautiful and valuable awards will carry with them New England titles and will be but part of the grand array of prizes to be turned over on the completion of the world's biggest candlepin competition.

The American-Record classic, now in its sixth annual stage, is to be held at the immense Huntington Club—with its 72 alleys—from Saturday, March 29 through Saturday, April 12, inclusive, with the exception of Sundays.

To Walter H. Newhall of Keamsburg, N. H., goes the distinction of being first to officially enter this 1941 tournament.

Newhall, a veteran of the game and a high scoring performer, will probably, too, officially launch the actual competition. He asked for and was given a 12 noon starting time on opening day, an hour which marks the start of the gigantic pin undertaking.

Pressing Newhall hard for first-in entry, was Fred P. Hallisey of Lynn. While Dorothy H. Elliott of Watertown and John J. Cassidy of Watertown were the first team to file their applications for the amateur mixed doubles.

BALLAST
Lynn's gift to the Bees, Catcher Stanley Andrews, calls time during a workout to get rid of some Texas dirt from his shoes. Stan will see plenty of service this season as the Bees lack a real top flight catcher.

ROOKIES' IDOL—Wes Ferrell, old Cleveland Indian and Red Sox, looks fine in his new Bee uniform at San Antonio training camp. He's working as hard as the lowest rookie. The grumpy disposition is gone this year and he has become the hero of the young Bees as he shows the technique that carried him to the top of the American League pitching column for several years.

HIDDEN—Sailor Bill Posedel demonstrates for the camera how well he can conceal the ball as he prepares to serve one up to the batter.

PEPPER GAME—Eddie Miller, baseball's No. 1 shortstop, loosens up in a fast pepper game. Eddie will be the key to the best infield in the National League this year with the acquiring of Babe Dahlgren from the Yankees.

OLD MASTER—"Maybe it's this year," seems to say Ole Casey Stengel as he watches his Bees sharpen their stingers amid new scenes at San Antonio, Texas. Casey admits he's got the best infield in the National League but moans about catching.

Sox to Test 4 First Basemen In 6-Inning Intra-Squad Game

SARASOTA, Fla., March 4—The Red Sox will play their first intra-squad game of the season at Payne Field tomorrow, and the teams will square off in this fashion.

STENGEL LAUDS INFIELD, BUT MOANS OVER CATCHING

By BILL GRIMES

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 4—After watching Babe Dahlgren, Bama Rowell, Eddie Miller and Sibby Sisti in two infield workouts Manager Casey Stengel let his hair down.

"If I were a pitcher, I'd want to have that infield behind me," commented "Old Case," when he was asked for his opinion of the Bees' inner defense, "the pitchers should put that quartet on the back. In fact, they'll be getting raises every year because of the base hits that Dahlgren, Rowell, Miller and Sisti will steal from opposing clubs."

"That's a very active infield. And, right here and now I want to say something about Babe Dahlgren's attitude. You writers who knew him when he was over there on the other side of the tracks have been telling me since I announced that we had purchased him from the Yankees that he's a great kid. You're right. I know that and he's been with us only one day."

"Usually, when they are sold by a club such as the New York Yankees, players don't like it. And, it's the new manager who's got to take it."

WONDER WITH GLOVE

"I was the first to meet Dahlgren when he arrived. I haven't been able to sleep here so I'm old No. 1 man in the dining room every morning."

"Babe's train was so late that to me he looked as though he had walked over from Frisco. Really, he was all in. But, he was very pleasant and told me that he was delighted to get back to Boston. And, I believe the boy. There wasn't any need for him to bull me about Boston. But, I know that he's very popular at home."

"Well, as you know he went out there and put on a show."

"Did you see those 'jigs' over back of first base during the final workout of the first infield? Old Babe is their boy from here in. And so is that Miller."

"Dahlgren and Miller can really put on a show, while Rowell and Sisti are so fast and daring that they are as sensational as the other two."

"In my opinion, there isn't anyone in baseball as clever with that glove as Dahlgren. Despite the fact that he had played only four times since the close of the 1940 season, Babe acted as though he had been playing every day for a month. And, all you need the pleasant looks on Rowell, Miller and Sisti when they saw him come up with those bad throws."

CLUB HAS SPIRIT

"All they have to trouble about is to keep thrown balls within a radius of 15 feet of first base. That boy will get them if they are only that far off line."

"I wouldn't hesitate to wager that Dahlgren, Rowell, Miller and Sisti are the best fielding infield in either major league. They may not hit as much as one or two other combinations, but they'll sure stop the other guys from taking too many liberties with my pitchers."

"And, I think that this might be a good time to comment upon the personal side of our club. I don't think that there is a better-mannered squad in baseball. There isn't any clique. Nor is there the slightest evidence of any petty jealousy."

"Naturally, one or two of them don't measure up to standard, so you can take it from me they won't be around so long, for they haven't enough baseball ability to hold their jobs, even if they were regular fellows."

MAY TRY GREMP

"We're pretty well set. We must uncover a center fielder and a hitting catcher. Earl Averill may fill the gap in center field but to be perfectly frank with you,

BABE DAHLGREN

I don't know where I'm going to get us a receiver who can hit. "I'm pretty strong for this boy Grempe. He's a hitter in my book. I'd like to find a spot for him. Rudio Hulsewitz tells me that he caught for him at York. Some of you writers have told me that he says that he likes to catch. He'll get a chance to put on the catcher's tool and get in behind that bat. I hope he can show me something, for if he does, I know that I won't have any trouble sleeping."

For the next two days, at least, the Bees' squad will be divided. The youngsters will work out mornings under Jack Onslow, Rudio Hulsewitz and Bob Coleman and then the rest of the squad will report at Pitman-Sullivan Park at 1:00 p. m.

Earl Averill and Buddy Hassett are expected to report to Manager Stengel today, which will leave Johnny Cooney as the lone absentee.

Yanks to Move Gordon to First

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Joe Gordon, the New York Yankees' regular second baseman for the past two years, will play first base this season, Manager Joe McCarthy announced. McCarthy ended the speculation about a successor to Babe Dahlgren, who was sold to the Boston Bees last week.

Giants Order Jurgens to N. Y. for Medical Check

MIAMI, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Bill Jurgens' illness is causing a serious situation in the New York Giants' camp.

The veteran shortstop, who had high hopes he had recovered from a head injury caused by a pitched ball last summer, has been ordered to return to New York for further examination. He's waiting until he feels well enough to make the trip.

So, what shaped up as a pretty good ball club with Jurgens at shortstop now looks like a team without an infield.

Jurgens suffered a recurrence of dizziness while the Giants were in Havana the past week-end.

"The attack was the worst I've experienced since I was hit last June," he said. "The nerves in my fingers went dead, and my left ear also went completely numb. That was a new sensation, and I confess I was got me scared."

SHELLENBACKS—Di Maggio, cf; Finney, lf; Fete Fox, rf; Lupien, lb; Cronin, ss; Tabor, 3b; Carey, 2b; Peacock, c; Dasso, p; Fleming, p.

DUFFYS—Campbell, rf; Barrett, lf; J. Fox, 3b; Flair, 1b; Spence, cf; Hale, 2b; Newsome, ss; Walsh, c; Berg, c; Brown, p; Johnson, p.

There are four first basemen scattered through the lineups—Fox, Campbell, Lupien and Flair. Manager Joe Cronin knows just what Fox and Campbell can do, so he's giving the regular first base spots to Lupien and Flair.

FIRST TRIP FOR FLAIR

This is Campbell's third trip to Sarasota. He has spent the last two seasons with Louisville in the American Ass'n, where he is extremely popular. But both Lupien and Flair have better possibilities at the bat, and Cronin wants to give them every opportunity to make good.

Lupien batted .307 at Little Rock last year, and Flair .312 at Scranton. Both are left-handed throwers and hitters. Flair is 6-4 and 22, and is a dead ringer for Bill Terry in action. He's a slashing hitter, one with a brilliant future in the game. This is his first trial at Sarasota, Lupien's second.

The teams will play six full innings with each pitcher going three. Frankie Pytlak will not get into the regular lineup until Thursday when a full nine-inning game will be played, but will do the hitting for all four pitchers tomorrow.

Dasso, getting his third trial in camp, is a strong right-hander with lots of stuff but a poor minor league record. Fleming is a dependable right-hander from the Coast who came to the Sox last summer.

PLAY REDS FRIDAY

Norman Brown is a young right-hander from Rockymount with a hop on his fast ball and just wild enough to make the hitters foot loose. If the kid ever develops a respectable curve he'll be a sensation. He won 11, lost 5 for Rockymount last year.

Johnson is the 21-year-old southpaw who won 6, lost 2 for the Sox last year after joining the club from Rockymount on July 16.

Thursday's game will be played as a feature of the Sara De Soto Pageant, which will be climaxed Saturday with a mammoth parade and ball.

Cronin is anxious to have his boys get the feel of competition before they open their exhibition game scheduled against the Reds in Tampa Friday.

DICKMAN TAKES 'RIBBING' FOR LOW DRAFT NUMBER

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., March 4—Lou Finney was exchanging greetings with his Red Sox team mates. Emerson Dickman came spring-heeling by.

"Hiya, Corporal," shouted Lou. "Officer friend of mine at Fort Benning (Alabama) looking for you. Got a good ball club there, but needs a pitcher. Ah told him about you and he promised me he'd have you in June. Ah fixed it for yah. Twenty-one bucks a month. Ain't that somethin'. Imagine old Dick getting by on $21 a month. Whee-ee-ee!"

Lou jumped all over the field with great glee, while Dickman applied a full Nelson.

"Don't go flin' me up," said Dick, "because I'll be there soon enough. But I guess you're right about Benning, because all the Buffalo boys are being shipped down there." (Dickman's from Buffalo.)

WANTED TO VOLUNTEER

Dickman has such a low draft number and no dependents that he started to volunteer in the anti-aircraft division last winter. But a volunteer had to sign for three years and friends persuaded him to wait until he was called.

"If it was only for a year," said Dick, "I'd have gone in a minute and had it over with, but I imagine there wouldn't be much of my arm left if I toted a rifle around on my shoulder for three years."

It will be a shame, in a way, if Dick is called so early because the Buffalo youngster seems on the threshold of his greatest season.

TOOK TREATMENTS

Only 26 now, he's been with the Red Sox three full seasons, and two years back he and Joe Hoving won great fame as the Six "Firemen." Dick won 8, lost 3 that year as the Sox finished second, winning two of five games in the midsummer series sweep against the Yanks in New York.

EMERSON DICKMAN

Last year, after a fine start, he bogged down in mid-season, mainly because of a sore arm. But he was all right at the season's end.

"It feels perfect now," said Dick. "After the season I took some treatments from a Swedish masseur in Buffalo, and he did a fine job. I haven't felt an ache in the arm since."

"I came down early this year, stopping with friends in Fort Lauderdale (East Coast) a month ago."

"Phil Cavarretta (Cubs' first baseman) has a home there, and Phil and I played a lot of squash and basketball, and did some throwing."

Yes, and some swimming, too, because no Florida resident ever had a finer tan than Dickman. He's a handsome lad, too.

Dickman seems more matured this year. He acts like a seasoned big leaguer now, whereas a few years back he was a shy retiring kid just off the Washington and Lee campus.

Lots of It Now—Perhaps the reason for the delight expressed by these Italian prisoners as they wallow in the water provided for them by their British captors is that they had little—or none—to drink before they were captured. They're in a Libyan prison camp.

At Work

Hands that once held rifles to fight the British revert to an opposite angle in this instance . . . as Italian prisoners are put to work in Sollum, Libya, to unload provisions and ammunition at the docks. Sollum fell into British hands during Gen. Wavell's sweep to Benghazi.

Last Ride?

Whether it was removed from the honorable place it occupied on Pall Mall to safeguard it from aerial bombs or to be melted down for sinews of war isn't known . . . but anyway, one of London's most famous historical statues, the equestrian figure of King George III, is hauled away on a lorry.
